

Al Spencer Slips From Rendezvous As Law Reaches In

Goldie Bates, "Rambling Sweetheart" of Oklahoma Bad Man, in Toils to Become Bait in Trap.

TEN TRAIN ROBBERS CAUGHT IN ROUNDUP

Purchase of Rubber Finger Stalls Gives U. S. Marshal First Clue to Personnel of Gang.

Pawhuska, Okla., August 23.—Al Spencer, "Will-o'-Wisp," all-around Oklahoma bad man, sought in connection with the hold-up early Tuesday morning of the Katy train No. 123 in a deserted section near Okesa, was still free Thursday night, although eleven suspects had been taken into custody here.

One of the suspects held for investigation by the federal agents is Goldie Bates, called by police "Spencer's Rambling Sweetheart," because she has no permanent home and, according to authorities, follows her bandit lover from place to place wherever his ramblings might carry him.

Assistant U. S. Marshal Alva McDonald arrested the woman, saying that sooner or later Spencer would try to communicate with her either directly or through an emissary, thus enabling authorities to get a clue as to his whereabouts.

The roundup of the suspects came with lightning-like rapidity. Federal men who since the hold-up admitted to the outside world that they were huffed, had really been preparing a coup which they executed late Thursday.

Among the first to be arrested was Max Billingsly, a merchant of Okesa. He denied having been implicated in the hold-up, and expressed surprise at his arrest. Henry Wells, alias Ike Ogg, who is free under $20,000 bonds, following his arrest in connection with the robbery of the First State Bank at Dewey, also was taken.

In Oklahoma City, police, upon instructions from Marshall McDonald, arrested Ralph White, said to be "Spencer's right hand man," and Earl Thayer, Santo Fe train robbery suspect.

Thayer laughed when he was taken into custody and said: "I'm not surprised."

Both men, however, denied participation in the hold-up.

The confession of a merchant that he had sold several men a stock of rubber finger protectors a day or two before the robbery took place gave the federal men the first clue to the whole.

COAST-TO-COAST AIR MAIL ROUTE NOW IS ASSURED

Postmaster General New Declares Success of Trial Flights Certain to Bring Regular Service in Wake

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, August 23.—A regular transcontinental airplane mail service, operated at night as well as during the day, is assured, Postmaster General New declared today, as a result of the successful trial flights during the last few days.

Mr. New said the night flying tests had been a "great success" and were conclusive proof that a regular service can be maintained. He made no prediction, however, as to the date such a service would be inaugurated.

Last Flight Friday.

Cleveland, August 23.—The air mail test service flights from coast to coast will be discontinued after Friday's flight for an indefinite period, according to a telegram received late today by H. B. Shaver, superintendent of the air mail field here, from C. F. Egge, general superintendent of air mail at Omaha, Neb. Saturday's flight in the scheduled five-day test has been cancelled.

The reason for the discontinuance of the flights, the telegram said, was to give postal employees a rest after arduous work in preparing for and assisting in the trial flight.

The telegram from General Superintendent Egge to Mr. Shaver and addressed to "all fields" follows:

"The through schedule which involves night flying will be discontinued after flights scheduled to leave Friday morning, August 24, are completed. The flights scheduled for departure from New York and San Francisco on Saturday and arriving at those cities Sunday, have been canceled. All engaged have worked overtime and no advantage in Sunday delivery. Advise postmasters and acknowledge receipt through Washington."

SECOND DAY FLYERS. AHEAD OF SCHEDULE.

Chicago, August 23.—Running ahead of schedule, mail planes landed in New York and San Francisco today, completing the second transcontinental test flight, while two other mail planes were speeding across the

GOVERNMENT FUEL SUPPLY MACHINE PLANS FOR CRISIS

Preparations for Protecting Hard Coal Consumers Go Forward in Bureaus Assigned to Job.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT STUDIES LEGAL STEPS

Union and Operator Conferencees Remain in Touch Pending Arrangements to Save Mines.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, August 23.—Final phases of the government's program for supplying fuel to anthracite consumers in the event of suspension of work in the hard coal mines were taken up today by the several bureaus to which the preparations had been assigned, but hope of an ultimate settlement of the controversy between operators and their employees continued to be expressed in various quarters.

Chairman Hammond, of the coal commission, after a conference with President Coolidge, announced that the commission's "emergency report" on the situation would be held up until the last minute so its conclusions might not hinder any move of the disputants to get together. He declined to say whether the commission was in receipt of information which led it to expect such a move. His visit to the white house was explained as for the purpose of reporting progress in the distribution program.

Many Departments Busy.

The threatened suspension of anthracite production was reflected in the activity of a number of government bureaus today as the administration's "defense" program began to assume definite shape. In the interior department the burden of mines completed the preparation of instructions for those who would be called upon to substitute soft for hard coal, and the geological survey prepared final data on available and prospective additions to the normal fuel supply.

F. R. Wadleigh, federal fuel distributor, completed arrangements for the meeting of representatives of the governors of 11 anthracite consuming states in New York next Tuesday, while his assistants conferred with the interstate commerce commission on a proposed system of priority for transportation. The shipping board was said to have prepared a list of ships most adapted for use in supplementing railroad transportation of

Twelve Beauties To Compete For Title of "Miss Atlanta"

Twelve of the most beautiful girls in Atlanta will appear at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Atlanta Woman's club before the judges in The Constitution's contest who have been named to select "Miss Atlanta" as representative of this city in the National Beauty Tournament at Atlantic City September 5, 6, 7. The winner will be announced in The Constitution Sunday.

Eleven of these were named by the judges in the initial elimination contest held at the Woman's club Thursday afternoon. Miss Virginia Lawson, selected as one of the thirty initial winners and who was out of the city Thursday, was voted the privilege of appearing today.

The twelve fairest daughters of Atlanta, as selected by the judges, follow in alphabetical order:

Miss Ruby Black, of 65 Beecher street.
Miss Helen Bowen, of 800 Peachtree street.
Miss Emma Frances Brotherton, of 16 South Gordon street.
Miss Janie Brown, of 60 Mansfield avenue.
Miss Gladys Griffin, of 111 Springdale road.
Miss Josephine Hollis, of 83 Avery drive.
Miss Virginia N. Lawson, of 1210 Highland avenue.
Miss Virginia Oshersher, of 125 Orme circle.
Miss Bootsie Perkins, of the Delamater apartments.
Miss Elizabeth Smith, of 1010 Peachtree street.
Miss Frances Thayer, of 132 Park drive.
Miss Irene Thomas, of 1422 Peachtree road.

Charm and Beauty Reign JUDGES ENTHUSIASTIC OVER LOVELINESS OF ENTRANTS Supreme in Big Contest

The charm and beauty of Atlanta's girls has ever been a national toast. But it required the initial judging event of The Constitution's beauty tournament Thursday afternoon to emphasize to its fullest magnitude the real scope of the charm of young womanhood of "the Gate City of Dixie."

Fresh and charming; gay or pensive as the case determined, thirty chosen beauties of Atlanta assembled Thursday afternoon at the Woman's club for their initial appearance before judges in The Constitution's beauty contest.

All thirty had one attribute in common—beauty. But aside from that, hardly two were otherwise similar.

Every Variety There.
Vivid blonds were there; dashing brunettes in number; fluffy little girls with warm coloring, and lissom, pale belles with stately grace in every movement.

Four judges named some time ago to select "Miss Atlanta" literally caught their breath in amazed surprise at the grace and beauty of the thirty fairest daughters of Atlanta—any one of whom might win a national beauty contest in her own right.

They reflected that they were present to select out of that colorful array of gorgeous young women in the full pride of luxuriant youth—and instead of narrowing the contest to five beauties, as was scheduled, they were forced to retain twelve after three hours of grueling work.

"I'm glad I was invited to become a judge," declared Mrs. Charles Jerome, chairman of the art committee of the woman's club, after the initial event was concluded. "This afternoon's sight of thirty beautiful and sweet girls has increased my pride in the young womanhood of America and Atlanta."

Congratulates Constitution.

JUDGES SELECT BEAUTY WINNER THIS AFTERNOON

Final Judging of Contestants for Trip to Atlantic City Will Take Place at Woman's Club.

Constitution Will Be Host at Tea This Afternoon to Contestants After Decision Is Rendered.

Judges in The Constitution's tournament to select "Miss Atlanta" for the national beauty tournament at Atlantic City will complete judging this afternoon after having eliminated all but twelve contestants from competition Thursday.

The names of these, selected as the twelve fairest daughters of Atlanta, are published elsewhere in this issue. They were selected out of thirty initial winners who appeared in person before the judges Thursday afternoon.

The final judging will begin promptly at 3 o'clock at the Atlanta Woman's club on Peachtree street. The same judges will preside.

They are Forrest Adair, prominent realtor and art connoisseur; Mayor Walter A. Sims, Mrs. Charles Jerome, chairman of the art committee of the Atlanta Woman's club; Miss Pearl Saville, director of Red Cross life-saving for the south, and Wesley Hirschberg, artist-photographer.

At the close of the judging, The Constitution will be host to the twelve contestants at tea on the terrace of the woman's club. Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president, and Mrs. Norman Sharp, vice president of the club, will act as official hostesses for the occasion, and members of the woman's department of The Constitution will assist them in entertaining.

Mayor Will Be Present.

Mayor Sims, who was prevented from participating in the judging Thursday afternoon on account of absence from the city will be on hand and will cast his ballot in the final selection of "Miss Atlanta."

The identity of "Miss Atlanta" will not be disclosed until publication of The Constitution of Sunday morning. The Howard theater, granted exclusive moving picture rights of the event, will show its pictures beginning Monday.

In addition to selecting "Miss Atlanta," the judges will name a second and third choice. In event the first selection for "Miss Atlanta" is unable to attend the great carnival event recognized as the peer of all North American beauty tournaments, the second choice will take her place.

Pact of Lausanne Ratified by Turks Amid Peans of Joy

PROBE OF CHARGE AGAINST HOWARD MAY BE DELAYED

Postponement Is Likely as Result of Illness of Edgar Watkins, Who Is the Leader of Defense.

While the grievance committee of the Atlanta Bar association Thursday night announced itself in readiness to begin this morning an investigation of sensational charges of alleged irregularity against Judge J. H. Howard, recently appointed to the newly created Fulton county superior court judgeship, sudden illness of Edgar Watkins, leader of Judge Howard's defense, developed a possible cause for postponement.

Sought by Constitution reporters for a statement on the eve of hearing charges by Edgar Latham that Judge Howard offered to secure him the position of solicitor general in consideration of a division of fees, Mr. Watkins was reported by a member of his family to be seriously ill.

It was explained that the attack was a sudden one, and it was added that Mr. Watkins planned to attend the hearing if his condition permits. No intimation was given that he would ask for a continuance.

Members of the grievance committee of the bar association, before whom the charges were to be heard Friday morning at 10 o'clock, expressed regret at the illness of Mr. Watkins and stated that if a postponement was asked on account of the unexpected illness of Mr. Watkins, such request would be granted, unless, of course, Judge Howard, or others of his friends, desired the hearing to proceed as scheduled.

Will Enter Denial.

Friends of Judge Howard stated Thursday that a general denial of accusations made by Mr. Latham would be entered and that the hearing would "resolve itself into a question of veracity" between the two men.

Members of the investigating committee again declined to state whether Governor Walker would be summoned during the hearing, or whether a committee would call on the chief executive at his office to obtain any statement he may make in connection with charges of Mr. Latham that the governor had "full knowledge of the

Angora Assembly Approves Work of Ismet Pasha by Vote of 213 to 14—Moderates Win.

TURKEY NOW SUPREME ALONG GOLDEN HORN

Sway of Sublime Porte Again Extends Into Europe—German Allies Escape Indemnities.

Constantinople, August 23.—Wild celebration in Constantinople marks the news that the Angora national assembly has ratified the Lausanne treaty.

The vote of 213 to 14 by which the treaty was accepted Thursday is a striking victory for the Turkish moderates who have consistently maintained that the Lausanne convention was a complete Turkish triumph, the allies being defeated on every point.

Left wing members of the national assembly, suspicious of any agreement with European nations, which they declared had previously betrayed them, had at first opposed the treaty. The success of Ismet Pasha's work at Lausanne is emphasized by Thursday's support of the document.

Is Turk Victory.

The treaty says for Turkey the following decisive victories:

1. Turkey returns to Europe; her western frontier being the Maritza river. She regains all of Eastern Thrace, including the holy city of Adrianople.

2. Turkey pays no indemnity, despite the fact that she was an ally of the central powers in the world war. She receives no indemnity from Greece, but she has whipped Greece to a standstill and has nothing to fear from the Hellenic power.

3. Capitulations.—The pre-war arrangement by which foreigners in Turkey could only be tried by judges of their own nationality is abolished. It is replaced by a system of legal guarantees, but Turkey has definitely established her equality among nations.

4. Turkey retains her control over her Armenian population and she limits the number of warships European powers may keep in the Dardanelles. She has failed, however, to gain her claims to Mosul.

5. The allies evacuate Constantinople, and Turkey again takes over control of her former capital.

Thursday night Kemalists supporters, wearing the distinctive black "tarboosh" or conical lamb's fur hat, introduced by Mustafa Kemal Pasha, paraded the streets of Pera and Stamboul, firing revolvers, singing the Kemalists war songs and joining in the demonstrations.

STIGALL LAWYER CHARGES 'RING'

"Sensational disclosures that will shock the public will be made when Officer E. C. Stigall is placed on trial under the indictment returned against him in connection with the shooting to death of W. H. Hames, and the wounding of former Policemen James H. Kirk and Ernest Stanton," Attorney William Schley Howard, defending Stigall, announced Thursday night.

Charging that Stanton is under indictment in DeKalb county accused as a whisky manufacturer and that he is a brother-in-law of Dewey Nunn, the raid on whose home at 7 Forrest avenue by Officer Stigall resulted in Kirk being discharged from the police force, Attorney Howard said that the entire situation may be summed up as follows:

"Stanton was manufacturing whisky in DeKalb county, which his brother-in-law was selling in Atlanta, and James H. Kirk, then a policeman, was furnishing the protection."

Says Kirk Had Gun.

Attorney Howard further announced that he had in his possession affidavits from four eyewitnesses to the shooting, each of whom swore positively that Kirk had a pistol in his hand when he was shot, and that he carried the pistol with him as he ran.

"Published accounts that these witnesses claim Kirk held the pistol in his left hand is propaganda from Stigall's enemies, as these witnesses have contended from the beginning that Kirk held the pistol in his right hand; that he appeared to be in the attitude of attempting to use it at one time," Colonel Howard said.

Stanton, who is at liberty under a $7500 bond, furnished to DeKalb county authorities under the indictment charging the manufacture of whisky, will be placed on trial in DeKalb county first Monday in September, he said.

facts" prior to the appointment of Judge Howard.

Charges against Howard.

Charges recently made by Mr. Latham were that Judge Howard had approached him with a proposition to have him appointed solicitor-general of the Fulton circuit, provided Latham would agree to a "division of large fees of the office." The charges were made through the press immediately after Judge Howard's appointment to the Fulton superior court bench and included charges that Governor Walker had been informed of the "full facts" in advance of the appointment, Mr. Latham's charge created unusual interest in political circles of this city and were finally taken up by the bar association, which, it was stated, "practically unanimously" endorsed Mr. Latham for appointment as judge.

The charges were referred to the grievance committee of the bar association, and a public hearing was announced for Friday morning, at which time those interested would be given opportunity to be heard.

Immediately following press accounts of the charges made by Mr. Latham, Judge Howard stated that he did not "think it proper for a judge of the superior court to engage in a newspaper controversy" over the matter, and Mr. Watkins assumed the lead among Judge Howard's friends in vigorously defending the new judge against the attack.

It was stated Thursday night, after Mr. Watkins' illness became known, that his absence would greatly hamper progress of the investigation by the committee and that a postponement would no doubt result.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR NEW DIVISION

Arrangements were put under way Thursday to care for the new criminal division of Fulton superior court which will be presided over by Judge G. H. Howard, recently appointed by Governor Walker.

The first time since the completion of the court house, it has been found necessary to rearrange courts in order that the newly created criminal division may have adequate rooms.

Emergency workmen under the direction of engineering officials Thursday set about the rearrangement which they expect to finish within the next few days, and regular sessions in the new division are expected to commence September 1.

Judge Howard's court will occupy the courtroom on the fourth floor, now occupied by Judge W. D. Ellis, and Judge E. D. Thomas and Judge Ellis, now and the other two courts, now occupied by Judge L. Z. Rosser, Jr., and Judge L. F. McClelland, of the municipal court. This arrangement will place all the civil divisions of the superior court on the same floor.

The law library on the eighth floor will be moved to the assembly room on the main floor and one of the civil divisions will occupy these quarters.

Judge Rosser and Judge McClelland will be moved from the eighth floor to the quarters now occupied by Judge Bell and Judge H. M. Reid, of the civil division of the city court, on the sixth floor.

Under the new arrangement which places the criminal divisions on the second and fourth floors, officials express the belief that the large crowds invariably attending these courts, and attorneys and prisoners will be handled with greater convenience for everyone.

OUTLAWS GIVE UP.

Pawhuska, Okla., August 23.—Ten men arrested in connection with the robbery Monday night of a Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train near Okeesa, Okla., were brought here today by a posse headed by federal, county and city officers. The men were apprehended in the rough country in eastern Osage county, known as an outlaws' retreat, and surrendered without a shot being fired, it was announced by Alva McDonald, United States marshal for the western district of Oklahoma, who participated in the search.

"We have ten of the men who participated in the robbery and will have the eleventh before night," Marshal McDonald said.

Automobile Wrecked Against House, Burns; Occupants Uninjured

Macon, Ga., August 23.—(Special.) Dr. R. F. Holland, of Asheville, N. C., and members of his family narrowly escaped death on the Jones county road, near Macon, today, when their large touring car went over an embankment and across the steps of a house at the side of the road, turned over and burned up.

Holland and his 6-year-old daughter, Betty Lee, and a negro maid were bruised and shaken up, but sustained only minor injuries. They received attention at a local hospital and continued their trip to Florida tonight by train.

Dr. Holland lost control of the car when he turned out of the road to avoid a truck, which was driven by two boys and which did not stop.

North Carolinians Invite President To Deliver Address

Washington, August 23.—President Coolidge received and took under consideration today an invitation tendered by a delegation from North Carolina to deliver an address at the dedication some time in October of the monument at Bentonville, near DeWitt, marking the spot where the last detachment of Confederate soldiers surrendered during the civil war.

Members of the delegation, who were presented to the president by William Branham, chairman of the republican state executive committee in North Carolina, said Mr. Coolidge expressed a wish to be present at the dedication but asked that he be allowed a few days to consider whether his duties would prevent him from leaving the capital at the time.

The delegation included Colonel Banehan Cameron, of Hillsboro; Mayor Manning, of Durham; M. E. Newson, president of the Durham Chamber of Commerce; Speaker Dawson and Representative Everett, of the North Carolina house of representatives; General Julian S. Carr, former commander of the Confederate veterans, and Professors Brown, of Trinity college, and Connor, of the University of North Carolina, who, Newson, was the president of the Durham Chamber of Commerce, was presented by the president with a bouquet of roses.

MYSTERIOUS MALADY EPIDEMIC IN VIRGINIA

Richmond, Va., August 23.—Three deaths from "devil's gripe" and almost a thousand cases of the mysterious malady that has been prevalent in Virginia for several weeks were reported today by Dr. Ennis G. G. Williams, state health commissioner, in reply to his request of physicians that they report immediately all cases of the disease now under their care.

The malady, which made its first appearance in Virginia since 1883 in Hanover county, is spreading rapidly in the southwestern part of the state.

The rate of births a 1,000 population in the United States decreased from 24.3 in 1921 to 22.7 in 1922, according to a report issued by the census bureau this week; the decrease in cities from 23.9 to 22.3, and rural districts, 24.8 to 23.1. The death rate increased from 11.7 in 1921 to 11.9 in 1922, the city rate being from 12.2 to 12.5, and the rural, 11.2 to 11.4 a 1,000.

Man Prefers Death In Niagara Water To Proffered Rescue

Niagara Falls, N. Y., August 23.—Disdaining attempts to rescue him, an unidentified man was swept to death over the American falls today. The man was first seen by police in the water about 100 feet above Prospect Point, being carried along by the current in a sitting posture. He appeared to be about 65 years old and had a gray mustache.

A life line was thrown to him, but he paid no attention to it, and went over the brink about 20 feet from shore. A search of the river bank revealed no clothing or note that would identify the man.

ROBBERS LOOT HOME WHILE FAMILY AWAY

Robbery of the home of Van W. Wilkerson, of 154 Myrtle street, was discovered about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon by a negro employee of A. S. Marshall, of 150 Myrtle street, who had been employed to care for the flowers during the Wilkersons' absence from the city.

The negro found a screen cut and the window broken, and immediately reported the matter to Mrs. Marshall who called the police.

Call Officers Henry Donehoo and C. E. Ford investigated the burglary, but could find no clue to the identity of the robbers.

It was not possible to estimate the amount of loot secured because of the absence of the Wilkerson family.

Underwood Offers Plan to Terminate Invasion of Ruhr

MELLON WILL URGE CUT IN SURTAXES

Washington, August 23.—Secretary Mellon will renew to the next congress his recommendation for a reduction in the higher brackets of income surtaxes.

An announcement of his purpose at the treasury today, however, said he was uncertain whether the proposal would meet with a favorable reception at the capital.

The large increase in income tax receipts by the treasury during the last fiscal year was said to be attributed by the secretary in no small part to the small reduction to surtaxes, brought about in the last tax legislation. He was said to believe this cut had acted as a stimulant to investors to employ their money in productive enterprise as differentiated from tax exempt securities. A further reduction in the higher surtaxes, he is convinced, is the only effective method of competing with the tax exempt issues.

Some members of congress who have talked with the secretary recently have informed him that there is little hope of tax legislation at the next session, but he feels that he should send his recommendations to the capitol regardless of the opposition.

The recommendations for reduction in the higher brackets probably will be contained in the annual report of the treasury department which usually goes to congress in the first few days of a new session.

WOMAN IS BRUISED WHEN HIT BY CAR

Miss Jesse Reynolds, 97 Grand avenue, narrowly escaped serious injury about 7 o'clock Thursday evening when she was struck down at the corner of East Georgia avenue and Hill street by an automobile driven by G. R. Birdsong, of 30 Orange street. Miss Reynolds was immediately taken to her home by the family physician, Dr. W. L. Ballenger, who was driving by the scene of the accident.

Dr. Ballenger said later that Miss Reynolds' injuries consisted only of bruises and cuts. At her request, no charges were filed against Mr. Birdsong.

Witnesses told Officers Henry Donehoo and C. E. Ford that Birdsong was going east on Georgia avenue and that he turned to the left onto Hill street, striking Miss Reynolds immediately after making the turn.

CAPITAL TOO GREEDY, ASSERTS BROOKHART

Des Moines, Iowa, August 23.—(By The Associated Press)—The "economic war" will not end until business abandons the present predatory methods and unites with producers and consumers of the country in sharing with them their just reward.

United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart declared in an address here today before the Lyons club.

Economic cooperation of all classes, said the senator, is the solution of the problem created by inequality of reward.

Senator Brookhart declared that "capital is taking a vast toll of labor," and that this, with the decreased earnings of the farmers renders laboring men and farmers natural allies.

Propaganda seeking to separate them, he declared, was being given wide distribution.

"It is my contention," said Senator Brookhart, "that the interests of the producer and consumer are the same and that all men are, or ought to be, both producers and consumers. The agencies of distribution, including transportation, credit and marketing, are the servants and not the dominant power."

"Of first importance is production. The only ultimate purpose of production is consumption. Certain basic facts call the farmer and the laborer together upon this economic theory and the quicker business recognizes the soundness of this theory and its honest development, the quicker we will reach prosperity and progress."

"Out of the dollar labor pays for the products of the farm, the farmer gets 37 cents and the official reported by the joint committee of congress. Out of the dollar the farmer pays for the products of labor, the laboring man gets even less. This last fact is disputed but I think it substantially correct."

"The cost of distribution in the United States is unbearable. Its waste and inefficiency is destroying business itself. During the last session of congress a distinguished United States senator declared that 55 per cent of American business as now organized ultimately fails. This situation is unstable and unsound."

"Since the farmer is the principal consumer of the product of labor, and in labor I include the brain workers, and since labor is the principal consumer of the products of the farm, these facts are calling them together for the solution of this vital problem of our economic system."

"When we figure that during the past thirteen years total increase in agricultural wealth is only about three per cent a year, it is not hard for the farmer to decide that other capital is taking vastly more than its share."

"And since wages have been reduced until they probably do not average nine hundred dollars a year, the farmer knows that his natural ally is labor and not capital."

"When the manufacturers and business men of the United States reach the same conclusion that they can at once join not only with the farmer, but with labor also, the economic war is over. It will not be over until business abandons the present predatory methods and unites with the producers and consumers of the country in sharing with them their just reward."

New Translation Of New Testament Is Just Completed

Chicago, Aug. 23.—(By The Associated Press)—An American translation of the New Testament from the original Greek, and done in a simple, modern but vigorous style of English intended to be understandable to the average American reader, has just been completed by Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed, chairman of the New Testament department of the University of Chicago, it became known today. Dr. Goodspeed devoted three and one-half years to the task, having been invited to make the translation by the publication department at the university.

Dr. Goodspeed explained that the New Testament was "not written in classical Greek" nor the "Biblical Greek of the Greek version of the Old Testament, nor even in the literary Greek of the day, but in the common language of everyday life," and that he therefore had sought to put his translation in the everyday language of American life.

Feeding the Multitude.

His translation of the "miracle of feeding the multitude," expressed in simple, direct English, follows:

"Where can we get bread enough in this solitude to feed such a crowd?" Jesus said to them:

"How many loaves have you?" They said:

"Seven, and a few small fish." Then he ordered the people to take their places on the ground, and he took the seven loaves and the fish and gave thanks and gave them to his disciples, and the disciples gave them to the people. And they all ate and were satisfied. And the pieces that they left that were picked up filled seven baskets. There were 4,000 men that were fed, besides women and children. And He dispersed the people and got into the boat and went to the district of Jordan.

"The Pharisees and Sadducees came up and to test Him, asked Him to show them a sign from heaven He answered:

"It is a wicked and faithless age that insists on a sign, and no sign will be given it but the sign of Jonah."

And He left them and went away. "When the disciples went across the lake, they forgot to take any bread. And Jesus said to them:

"Look out and be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees and Sadducees."

"But they were discussing something with one another, and saying: 'We have not brought any bread.' Jesus noticed it and said:

"Why are you discussing with one another your being without bread? You have so little faith. Do you not understand yet? Do you not remember the five loaves for the five thousand and how many baskets full you gathered up? Nor the seven loaves for the four thousand and how many baskets full you gathered up? Why do you not see that I was not talking to you about bread? But be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees and Sadducees!"

Then they understood that He was warning them not against the yeast but against the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees."

That the New Testament Greek was the common, everyday language of the time, Dr. Goodspeed said, was fully established by the papyrus discoveries and the grammatical researches of the last 25 years, years of great activity in the making of new lexicons of the Greek New Testament, half a dozen of which have appeared since 1910. Discovery and publication of Greek papyri had thrown great light upon the language of the New Testament, he said, adding: "I have taken advantage of these advances and endeavored to produce a translation of the New Testament which will have a little more of the ease, clearness and force than I have found in the current version."

"I have undertaken to determine what each writer of the New Testament meant to say," he continued. "And then I have tried to express this in the simplest and most vigorous modern English. In other words, in English of the same kind as the Greek of the original. We have particularly had in mind the American reader, and tried to eliminate British forms of expression, like 'steward' and 'husbandman,' and to use instead words intelligible to the American ear."

PLAN REIGN OF TERROR

Sacramento, Calif., to Be Given Dose of Rioting.

Sacramento, Cal., August 23.—Sacramento is to be subjected to a "reign of terror" by the Industrial Workers of the World, and members of the organization plan to give the city "the same kind of a dose that was administered to Centralia, Wash.," it has been learned by state investigators who are probing the activities of the organization in California.

That the New Testament Greek was the common, everyday language of the time, Dr. Goodspeed said, was fully established by the papyrus discoveries and the grammatical researches of the last 25 years, years of great activity in the making of new lexicons of the Greek New Testament, half a dozen of which have appeared since 1910. FINANCIAL SITUATION GOOD, DECLARES PRICE

Memphis, Tenn., August 23.—Taking as his text the story of "Timorous and Mistrust" in Pilgrim's Progress, Theodore H. Price, editor of Commerce and Finance, declared in an address before the Cotton States Merchants' association here today that the world today is full of men who "are running away from lions that are powerless to harm them although their roar is terrifying as long as they are invisible."

"In so far as our domestic conditions are concerned, our situation seems to be about as nearly perfect as it ever becomes," he declared, but asserted that, despite this, there is a feeling of apprehension and a subnormality of confidence that is restraining enterprise and gradually enervating the energy that ought to be devoted to the production and reproduction of wealth.

"As far as I can see," he continued, "it is attributable to the roaring of the European lions which we can hear but cannot see. We read in the papers each morning that a revolution threatens in Germany; that France and England are in hopeless antagonism over the occupation of the Ruhr and that the direct consequences will follow. We have heard this for nearly six months now and we are still waiting and expecting the worst."

"It is about time for us to disregard the cautions and fears of 'Timorous and Mistrust,'" he said in concluding his address, "and proceed to grasp with energy and firmness the opportunities that are ours. If we do this and continue simply to put one foot ahead of the other as we mount the bill of difficulty we shall speedily reach the summit and find ourselves within the walls of the 'celestial city' sooner than we expected and sooner than now seems possible to many who persist in being pessimistic because the roar of the chained lions across the Atlantic has made the bells of American prosperity for the time insensible."

ions across the Atlantic has made the bells of American prosperity for the time insensible."

Urges Diversification.

Thomas H. Kelley, of Minneapolis, said that the greatest hope for the prosperity of the south is based on diversification of industry.

"Of course cotton is still king," Mr. Kelley declared in an address at today's business session of the convention, "but you're getting further and further away from a purely agricultural system and shifting surely and certainly from one crop basis."

"It is in this change that the greatest hopes of the south are based for constant and increasing prosperity. The south has every resource with which to diversify her industries. There is no good reason anywhere in the south to depend solely on your cotton for prosperity."

Growth of the iron and steel industry in some sections and cotton-manufacturing in others has done much to focus the eyes of the country on the south, he said, and urged the importance of the development of waterways.

Good salesmanship and the Golden Rule were emphasized by Mr. Kelley as two essentials to business success.

"Selling power—not physical power—wins battles in business and builds bank accounts," he declared.

Advertising was cited as another important element in business.

If business is a piece of machinery, he said, "then advertising is the power belt. Harnessing to the driving wheel it transmits energy to the smallest cog."

Increase your efficiency if you would get ahead," he declared in his address which was devoted largely to terse, epigrammatic advice. "A pull or a relation won't do it. Grow too big for your job and you will be forced up; get too small for your job and you will rattle and be forced down."

Paroled To Attend Funeral of Father, Convict Runs Away

Chicago, August 22.—Jill "Hop Head" Lepenna, released for a day from Joliet penitentiary by Governor Len Small to attend the funeral of his father, made a sensational escape from his guard after returning from the cemetery here Wednesday afternoon.

The guard had removed the shackles from Lepenna upon arrival in Chicago Tuesday morning, at the request of the convict's young wife. Returning from the burial, the funeral party sat down to lunch when Lepenna darted through a window and escaped across adjoining roofs. Police squads were scouring the city Tuesday night with instructions to "shoot to kill."

The convict is known as one of Chicago's most dangerous hold-up and black-hand men. He has served sixteen months of a ten-year life sentence.

TWO WOMEN SOUGHT IN KIDNAPING CASE

New York, August 23.—Two women are sought by detectives searching for 3-month-old Lillian McKenzie, kidnapped from her carriage on a Manhattan street last Saturday.

One of the women sought is a beggar. On Saturday she visited a number of houses in Manhattan's lower West Side, a crying baby in her arms, seeking money.

The other woman is the childless wife of a man whose fondness for children made him desert her because there was none in his home.

Since the kidnaping she has visited her former home seeking her husband. She is said to have told neighbors that she has a baby now and "they can't take it away from me."

SIX SLIGHTLY HURT IN TRAIN COLLISION

Ocala, Fla., August 23.—In a collision of Atlantic Coast Line south-bound passenger train, No. 9, two miles north of Ocala last night with some loose cars on the main line, the following were injured: Joe Thompson, negro fireman, broken leg; L. W. VanHorn, mail clerk, bruised shoulder; L. C. Hurst, Winter Haven; C. J. Graves, Palmetto; I. L. Michaels, Savannah; Val McKay, Nashville, all minor bruises.

Engineer George Eastbrook stuck to his engine and set the brakes, averting a much more serious accident.

HITS ROCK AND SINKS OFF VANCOUVER COAST

Vancouver, B. C., August 23.—The freight steamer Selkirk struck a rock on the east end of Hearst island in a dense fog last night, according to word received here from Captain W. H. Gillen, her master. He said that the stern sank in seven fathoms of water leaving the bow high in the air.

The Selkirk commenced to fill with water immediately after striking, said Captain Gillen, and he and his crew of eight men rowed to Hardy bay on the east coast of Vancouver, where he communicated with this city. He said the vessel would be a total loss.

The Selkirk, which was listed at 142 gross tons, was north bound with cans for fish packing plants.

SEVEN MEN ARRESTED AT KU KLUX INITIATION

Plainfield, N. J., August 23.—A Ku Klux Klan initiation here last night ended with the arrest of seven men, one of whom said he was a minister, on charges of carrying firearms in an automobile. The men were held in $500 bail each, and failing to post bond, were locked up for a hearing today.

Forty policemen were called out to guard a Klan meeting at a hall in the city while an initiation was being held on a hill in the outskirts. During the night klansmen in groups drove back and forth from the hall to the hill and one of these groups was searched with the result that a shotgun and two revolvers were found.

PLANE CONSIDERED AS DEADLY WEAPON

Los Angeles, August 23.—The question of whether an airplane is a deadly weapon is involved in the arrest at San Juan, Santa Catalina Island, of A. C. Burns, an aviator, on complaint of Fred W. Forrester that the flyer endangers the lives of bathers and occupants of boats when he makes noise dives and does other aerial tricks over at Avalon bay.

Forrester, in swearing to the complaint, declared that he and his son were forced to throw themselves in the bottom of their boat to avoid being struck by Burns' plane.

Burns was arrested Monday. He pleaded not guilty. He will be given a preliminary hearing Saturday.

WATERSPOUT BURSTS ON GENOENSE RIVIERA

Eugenics Board In Drastic Plan To Improve Race

BY RODNEY F. DUTCHER.

Chicago, August 23.—Selective immigration, sterilization of defectives and control of everything having to do with the reproduction of human beings, are among the objects of the eugenics committee of the United States, which issued Thursday its sweeping program for the betterment of the human race.

The committee comes out frankly for birth control and the most widespread distribution of knowledge concerning the breeding of the species.

President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard; Senator Royal S. Copeland, former health commissioner of New York; Surgeon-General H. S. Cummings, Washington; President Livingston Farrand, of Cornell University; Dr. David Starr Jordan, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Dr. Charles E. Sawyer and many other noted educational, medical and social welfare leaders are on the committee's advisory council.

WEATHERBEE ESCAPES FROM CHINESE BANDITS

Halifax, N. S., August 23.—Darcy Weatherbee, of Halifax, captured by Chinese bandits while attempting to explore an overland route from Burma to Pekin several weeks ago, has escaped from his captors and is being escorted by Chinese troops to Tali, said a telegram received today by his brother here.

Weatherbee, son of the late Sir Robert Weatherbee, at one time minister of justice of Nova Scotia, is a mining engineer and has been a resident of Pekin for some time. He has explored various parts of the world and the last word received from him prior to his capture was a letter from northern Burma last May. In this letter Weatherbee told of natives and mules he had hired for his expedition through a country never before traversed by white men, on which he hoped to make important discoveries.

Weatherbee started on April 22. On July 24 came word that he had been captured in the province of Yunnan.

TWO DEAD, TWO HURT IN CROSSING CRASH

Two other sons, Elmer, 10, driver of the truck, and William, 14, were injured.

HOWARD - RIALTO

TO PLAY LONE HAND IN RUHR IF NEED BE

BY CARL VICTOR LITTLE.

Paris, August 23.—While Europe marks time on reparations certain definite ideas are crystallizing in the public mind.

The first is that France can and will solve the Ruhr problem single handed if abandoned by Britain.

The latest French note has met a cool reception in London. Premier Poincare evinced no change of front, but did offer in the note what he hoped would be a working agreement.

English dispatches report that it is not so regarded.

This fact was considered at a cabinet meeting Thursday, which approved Poincare's note and discussed the next step.

The occupation of the main valley, looms as a strong possibility if France is forced to act alone. This occupation would, it is believed, cripple Germany in one swift blow.

The strength of the French military position, is daily more obvious. Already at the gates of Frankfurt, her troops command this vital district. They are in a position to remain or, if necessary, advance along the whole Rhineland frontier.

Public Approves Rhineland.

Public feeling also is realizing the importance of the Rhineland separatist movement. Germany charges that France is behind this Rhineland propaganda to make the entire Rhine valley, an autonomous republic.

French officials, emphatically denying the charge that the movement is instigated by France, admit that Paris would not look unkindly on an independent Rhineland state. Meanwhile, Joseph Smets, leader of the separatist movement, has become an important figure in the situation.

Surrounded by a heavy bodyguard to ward off the attacks of Pan-Germans, he is directing the separatist movement from his home in Cologne. Among the steps that the separatist leader has taken are:

1. Sent out feelers to prominent advocates of the League of Nations, imploring the international body to take steps to make the Rhineland an autonomous state.

2. Plastered the Rhineland with large posters declaring that Prussia was always the enemy of the Rhineland and that it is now time to throw off the yoke.

3. Started a newspaper, Free Rhineland, which is campaigning, day by day, for freedom of the province.

4. Informed the allies, indirectly, that the Rhineland, if it gains independence, is willing to pay a portion of the German reparations account, although the province had nothing to do with provoking the war.

Is Old Growth.

The free Rhineland movement is not a new growth.

During the peace conference Georges Clemenceau, then premier of the republic, declared that the formation of the Rhineland into a buffer state between France and Germany was necessary for the future security of France.

President Wilson, Lloyd George and other allied representatives promised the famous security pact—which the United States and Britain later failed to ratify—if Clemenceau would withdraw his demand.

Louis Loucheur, the richest man in France, who is prominently mentioned as the successor of Poincare, has come out openly in favor of the separatist movement.

Poincare, although discreetly silent now, made it known at the time of the peace parley that he was in favor of cutting Germany's power to the extent suggested by Clemenceau and there is no indication that the premier has changed his mind now that Smets has started his offensive.

Smets takes the position that the Rhineland does not rightfully belong to the reich, because Prussia annexed it in 1815.

Hurt at Grade Crossing.

Aberdeen, Miss., August 23.—James Trice, prominent citizen of Tupelo, Miss., was fatally injured today when the automobile he was driving was wrecked by a Mobile and Ohio freight train at a crossing near Gibson. He died several hours later.

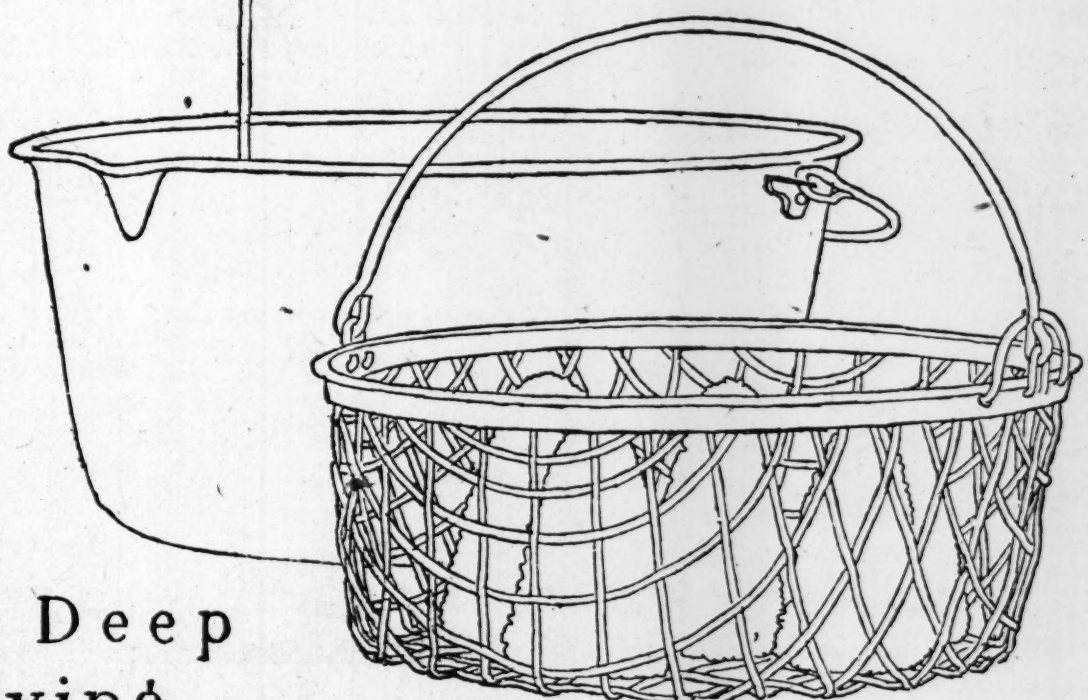

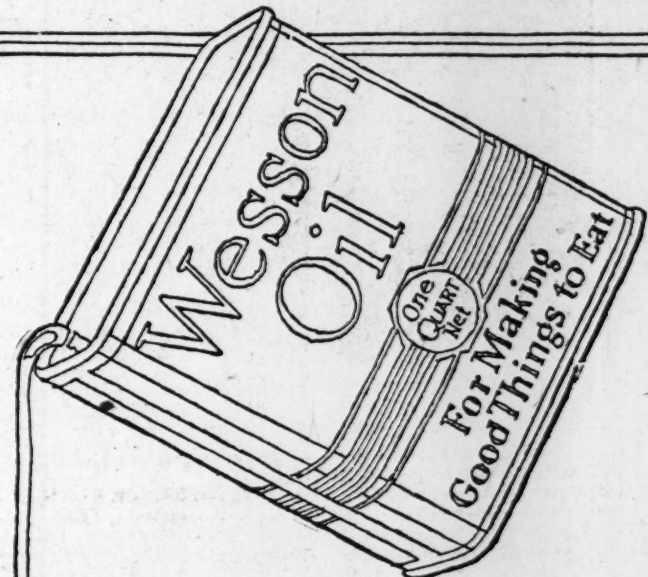

YOU NEED a fat as good as Wesson Oil to make fried food as good-to-eat and as good for you as it can be.

Wesson Oil is refined to a purity and goodness that we do not believe is equalled by any other oil you could buy—100% pure, rich, nourishing food.

It is the most wholesome, as well as the most delicious, frying fat.

We could not make it a bit better if you paid us ten times as much for it.

And perhaps the most amazing thing about it is that it can be so good and yet cost so little.

For Deep
Frying

WESSON OIL is very economical as a frying fat—especially in deep frying. Strain it, to remove any crumbs of food, and you can use it over and over again.

This is true to some extent of any fat. But here is one advantage of Wesson Oil. It will not absorb the odor or flavor of any food cooked in it—not even fish nor onions. You may use it over and over again for frying different things. And Wesson Oil is not altered much by heating to cooking temperature. Much cooking fat has to be thrown out after you have used it a few times. But Wesson Oil is altered so little by heating that you can use it up and not waste it. It is almost as good the last time you use it as the first.

CRITICISM OF BANKS ONLY SOUNDING BRASS

Memphis, Tenn., August 23.—Carter Glass, United States senator from Virginia, defended the federal reserve system in an address today before the Cotton States Merchants' association, scored what he termed "misrepresentation" by "political demagogues" and made detailed reply to objections raised by critics of the system.

Senator Glass analyzed banking conditions under the system which prevailed prior to the establishment of the federal reserve board and presented conditions and asserted that "there had not been a time since President Wilson put his signature on the federal reserve act that any legitimate business should have been denied credit from any legitimate bank business."

Theories that the federal reserve system should be used to enable the withholding of commodities from the market was due to a perverted notion of its purpose. Such contentions, he declared, were being made by what he termed "demagogues."

Mr. Glass, with Theodore Price, of New York, and Thomas F. Kelley, of Minneapolis, were the principal speakers at the second day's session of the annual meeting of the association.

Mr. Price warned the merchants against taking flight because of the roaring of "invisible lions" and Mr. Kelley emphasized the need of diversification of industry in the southern states and systematic merchandising.

National Clothing Stores' Manager Says Students of the Southern Business College Are Diligent, Efficient, Thorough

Enroll now for the fall term in the School of Business Efficiency, the Southern Shorthand and Business University.

Efficiency counts in the business world.

It requires an efficient force to handle the office work of a firm carrying 40,000 accounts.

M. Silvers, manager of the National Clothing Stores, with stores everywhere, composing a chain of 50 establishments, needed extra help and called on the Southern Business College for such assistance as required. His head bookkeeper having been graduated from the Southern. The students reported for duty and completed the work in just one-half the time allotted by Mr. Silvers.

The following letter received by the Southern Business College from this firm is interesting indeed:

"Atlanta, Ga., August 18, 1923.

"Gentlemen: A short time ago we found that we would need quite a good deal of extra help to assist our office force. Our files contain about 40,000 accounts. Our head bookkeeper here, who is a graduate of your college, suggested that we call on you for assistance, and assured us that, if we secured aid from your school, our work would be finished in half the time we allotted for it.

"We had figured on about four weeks' work, but your students completed the whole file in a little less than two weeks. Needless to say this was most satisfactory to us.

"Wish to take this opportunity to congratulate you on the fine grade of clerical help you are turning out for the business world. From my experience with those students of yours with whom I have already come in contact, I have no hesitancy in recommending them to the public as being most diligent, efficient and thoroughly trained.

"Very truly yours,

"M. SILVERS, Manager."

It is always gratifying to the managers of the Southern Shorthand and Business University to receive letters from important firms commending the efficiency of their graduates. Another firm in Atlanta has written that its eight stenographers, all from the STATE OF NEW YORK—County of New York.

Hiram Johnson Hurls Challenge In Open Letter

Washington, August 23.—Publication of a letter written by Senator Hiram Johnson to a friend in California, discussing the political outlook for 1924, impelled the senator to issue a statement paying his respects to those who gave the letter to the public and adding that he hoped the incident would be taken by the public as an invitation to a contest in California.

Apart from candidacies, the statement said, the "progressive republicans" of California are determined that the state's delegation to the republican national convention next year must represent truly a progressive republican state.

The letter to whose publication the senator referred was written from Europe in May, and was addressed to Charles K. McClatchy, of Sacramento. In it Mr. Johnson said he would like to be president, but saw no prospect that President Harding could be defeated for re-election. He added that he was convinced the Johnson element in Cal. not only its old-time strength in California, and doubted whether he could carry the state "against Harding, Hoover or any other candidate."

Given Out With Strangers

"Tonight's statement was prefaced by Senator Johnson with a stipulation that he was giving it out on condition 'on express condition that it shall be published exactly as written and fully as written or not at all.'"

"The only importance of the publication of this letter is as illustrative of the kind of political opposition without limitations of honor or decency."

"Last May, while I was in Europe I wrote to a friend of mine, Charles K. McClatchy, of Sacramento, an intimate personal letter. Mr. McClatchy sent excerpts and excerpts only of this letter in a letter of his own to Albert E. Boynton, of San Francisco, chairman of the republican state central committee of California."

"I am publishing a small paper in San Francisco called the Journal. Lawrence is the chief supporter in northern California of Herbert Hoover and devotes himself to malicious abuse of me. Lawrence surreptitiously obtained letters from files and private offices of Mr. Boynton and among these found the letter of Mr. McClatchy to Boynton with excerpts from my letter, and published McClatchy's letter in his paper. This is the letter now being circulated by him and published in the east."

Some Things Not Done

"There are some things that must not be done even in politics, and that decent men and women cannot condone. One of these is burglarizing an opponent's rooms or stealing his private property or private correspondence or receiving things thus appropriated. This is exactly what was done in this particular instance."

"Fortunately, aside from little intrusions which occur in the correspondence of every man and woman, there is nothing in any correspondence of mine that cannot be revealed or published. I do object, however, to grand larceny or petty thieving in politics or business."

"I may add that I hope the letter may be taken by the opposition, well exemplified in this instance, as an invitation to a contest in California. Progressive republicans there, apart from any candidacies, are determined that the delegation to the republican national convention next year shall represent California as a progressive republican state."

LAWRENCE RETURNS SENATOR'S FIRE

San Francisco, Cal., August 23.—Andrew M. Lawrence, mentioned in a statement given out in Washington by Senator Hiram Johnson, dictated the following over the telephone from Del Monte, Cal., where he is spending the week-end:

"It's always unprofitable to discuss matters with a corpse. If the late lamented senator had paid more attention to the new friends that he made and less to his enemies that he so frequently discusses, he would be alive today."

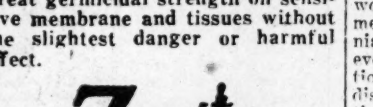

"I don't want to pronounce his funeral oration. The letters were obtained in the regular course of business. The senator is probably more disturbed over those that have not been published than over those that have."

FEDERAL BUREAUS PLAN FOR CRISIS

special grades of bituminous to New England and New York.

Keeps Eye on Bituminous Men

The federal bureau has been so official in its attitude that it has been called upon to act. Other agents, in the case of any domestic crisis holding possibilities of disturbances, have been scattered throughout the anthracite territory with instructions to report at frequent intervals on developments.

Possibility of sympathetic action by organized miners in the bituminous fields arising to impede the government's program has not been lost to view, it was stated officially, although confidence was expressed that the contract under which bituminous miners are employed would prevent any general disaffection on their part.

MUST PROTECT MINES FROM FLOOD

Atlantic City, N. J., August 23.—Anthracite mine operators and officials of the anthracite union, firmly convinced that September 1 would see a complete stoppage of their industry as a result of failure to make a new wage contract, remained today in Atlantic City, though all communication between them had been suspended for 48 hours. Both groups had been definitely told that the federal government has no ground for intervening further to prevent the shutdown, and neither had changed in the slightest degree the conflicting attitude which made them break off negotiations Tuesday. Arbitration for every disputed point was the last offer the employers had to make, it was repeated, while the union spokesman, John L. Lewis, steadfastly adhered to the ultimatum that the men would stay away from work unless a wage increase was assured.

But it also appeared during the day that the miners' union and the operators had a point to settle together before separating for the final measures which are necessary in what both sides now concede may be a final fight. It will take about 4,000 men to keep the pumps running in the deep mines through the Pennsylvania region, to keep up the maintenance work underground and to mine the coal that will fire the power plant sections which must be kept running.

Limited Force Is Usual.

In practically all of the strikes in the anthracite field a truce between unions and employers has been made sufficiently effective to assure the conduct of these operations. Unless it is done again it was stated by those familiar with the industry anthracite mines might be so flooded and damaged within a few days, or weeks as to make them incapable of production for many months. Grave as are the inevitable prospects of a strike that would involve the rank and file of the mine workers, failure to provide for the maintenance work was said to be even graver.

S. D. Warriner, chairman of the general committee of the mine operators, said the subject had not been brought up. Mr. Lewis, however, was holding in the city all the 38 members of the miners' scale committee and there was said to be a likelihood that this group would be called tomorrow in a general meeting. There is no clause in the existing wage contract in the anthracite region, which expires September 1, to fix the terms and conditions on which the maintenance and pump crews may continue in employment and the outlook was that a miniature wage scale negotiation might be set up in the matter.

Mr. Lewis also consulted with officers of the central Pennsylvania district of bituminous mine workers, which fact gave rise to rumors concerning the possibility that the soft coal miners might be induced later to walk out in support of the anthracite workers. Except to say that the meeting with the central Pennsylvania representatives had nothing whatever to do with the anthracite situation, the miners' president would not discuss the sympathetic strike suggestions.

NO STRIKE THREAT IN SOFT COAL FIELD

Chicago, August 23.—Soft coal production is not expected to be adversely affected in case of an anthracite strike, operators and mine workers' officials indicated here today. The bituminous miners are under contract until next April 1.

Illinois coal operators and representatives of the miners, including Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois district, meeting here, said no plans related to an anthracite suspension were under consideration.

Mr. Farrington said there was no thought of a suspension in the bituminous fields. He intimated, however, that rumors that soft coal would take place of anthracite in the event of a shutdown of hard coal mines might have the effect of causing discontent among union miners of the soft coal fields.

The middle west has no cause for alarm at the threatened strike of anthracite miners F. C. Honnold, secretary of the Illinois Coal Operators' association said, adding that there is a plentiful supply of bituminous coal above ground and middlewestern bituminous operators can supply the demand in case of emergency.

COMMISSION REPORTS ON PRODUCTION COSTS

Washington, August 23.—The cost of labor in production of one ton of anthracite increased from $1.62 in 1913 to $3.97 in the first quarter of 1923, the United States coal commission announced today in a report giving the result of its exhaustive study into production costs in the hard coal industry. The report called attention, however, that while labor costs have risen 146 per cent, the realization price in 1913, they have dropped to 59.5 per cent in 1923.

With special regard to indicated increase in labor costs, the report said: "Two important facts should be kept in mind. Only a part of the increase is due to increased wage scale of interest or federal taxes. It is not a good measure for trying to arrive at relative profits of different operations."

NO FURTHER INTERVENTION

Atlantic City, N. J., August 23.—Semi-official notice that the federal government would not intervene further in anthracite wage negotiations to prevent a stoppage of the mines September 1 today reached Atlantic City.

The news was conveyed to both the policy committee of the mine operators and the officials of the miners' union following the failure of negotiations for a new wage contract.

U. S. AID TO RUSSIA LAUDED BY SOVIET

New York, August 23.—America's aid to Russia through the American Relief administration is called by the soviet government "the greatest single service rendered in the history of the world by one nation to another," according to Colonel William N. Haskell, director of the administration, who returned on the steamship Homeric today.

Colonel Haskell's first act on arriving was to convey to the American people, "the undying gratitude of millions of Russians." He brought a parchment document in which he said the soviet government had officially expressed its thanks in the above words, concluding with "this assistance will always preserve friendship between the two nations."

The document is three feet long, wrapped in an embroidered silk folder.

There is no longer a food shortage in Russia, he said, and if the crop yield this year is great as it promises the farmers will be able to export 2,000,000 tons of grain. The present crop is from sixty to seventy per cent of the normal crop prior to the war.

Russian leaders are anxious to re-establish diplomatic relations with other countries, according to Colonel Haskell, who said this could not come about until the political situation in Russia changes. That might be ten or twenty years away, he said. Nine hundred thousand tons of supplies were transported to Russia by the administration at a cost of $60,000, 000 to America, he said.

LYLE GETS NEW TRIAL ON FORGERY CHARGE

Columbia, S. C., August 23.—Milton A. Lyle, young white man of Chattanooga, Tenn., who was convicted in Aiken early last year of uttering a forged check, was granted a new trial by the South Carolina supreme court in a decision filed here today.

In an opinion written by Associate Justice J. H. Marion, the court held that Presiding Judge Hiram E. Rice erred in admitting certain testimony tending to show that the defendant had committed similar crimes in Georgia, and also in limiting the number of witnesses the defense was allowed to call to support an alibi.

Lyle was tried in May of last year on a charge of uttering a forged check in Aiken in January of 1922. Witnesses for the defendant swore that at the time of the alleged crime he was working at Hepzibah, Ga.

THE WAREHOUSE ACT.
Warehousing production, for distribution to markets as they are able to absorb, is one of the chief pillars of the cooperative marketing system.

That this warehousing shall not only thoroughly safeguard the producer, whose commodities are entrusted thereto, but shall be of such sound foundation and financial responsibility that it may validate its "receipts" or certificates for discounting at any banking institution, is the very basis of the success of the system; and it is this combination of first, storing production for systematic market distribution, and second, the financing of the producer during such an orderly process, that is making of cooperative marketing such an economic relief to the producing interests.

Private warehouses, however, have their limitation of credit, and the efforts of Senator Harris in extending the government supervision and in including other than the old popularly known "staples" is most commendable.

There is every good reason why poultry products, fruits, vegetables, nuts, vegetable oils, syrup, etc., should be included in the government licensed warehouses, and under the new warehouse act the U. S. secretary of agriculture, who is the chief administrator of the law, has the authority to say what commodities shall be included among the staples. It is already known that peanuts have been included, that question having been settled by a recent direct inquiry on the subject.

What the farmers are looking for are warehouses that are safe and whose certificates are negotiable, and what the banks are looking for are receipts from warehouses with the stamp of the federal government.

All warehouses should be government bonded, and operated as rigidly under the federal laws as the national banking, or the federal reserve system. This law should be made to cover as wide a range of production as sound business discretion would admit, and the warehouses should be general and in easy access in every production zone.

The government can do far more in bettering the economic condition of farmers by such practical methods of relief as this, than by any radical legislation seeking to enmesh the producers in more debts, and with less real opportunities to meet them.

The federal warehouse act is a very important piece of legislation and the Harris amendment is constructive. It needs to be strengthened perhaps at the forthcoming congress, and when done so it will be the greatest boon to cooperative marketing yet offered of a legislative nature.

CONDITIONS IMPROVE.

Colonel B. L. Bugg, receiver of the A. B. and A. railroad, who has just completed a tour of inspection over his rails, reports that crops generally are good, much better than one is led to believe by general reports, and that small industries are springing up everywhere to help solve satisfactorily the farm economic situation.

"Small industries," said Colonel Bugg, "have proved the salvation of many towns and cities in Georgia. Large industries are not essential to prosperity if there are numbers of small ones, and that is just what many Georgia towns should go after."

Dr. DeLoach, director of agricultural extension work for the Armour company, now in Georgia, declares that the 650-acre cotton farm of the Armour near Arlington, on which the boll weevil has been particularly active this year, will produce a total of 500 full bales, as a minimum.

This farm has been, and is being conducted along ordinary practical lines, without any more than normal fertilization. It was begun after and as a result of The Constitution's exhaustive study of boll weevil control, made in the early spring of 1922, and has demonstrated that cotton can be grown successfully under boll weevil conditions by intensive cultivation, reduced acreage to the plow, and by the use of calcium arsenate poisoning.

Other reports, from various sections of the state, indicate renewed activities in pasturing, stock growing, the development of the creamery industries, and a general tendency toward a better balanced system of farm operations, and a closer cooperation between the people of all interests looking to improved economic conditions. Tobacco cultivation has proved most profitable this year in several south Georgia counties.

As Colonel Bugg has related, there has never been in the state such a tendency toward the establishment of small industry, and it is this movement that is stimulating the markets for diversified production.

Good pastures create the desire for good cattle; and a herd of good milk cows on every good farm in a community creates a demand for a near-by creamery.

Thus it is farm operations in balanced agriculture and small coordinated industries are developing side by side all over the state—a condition that carries every promise of revolutionizing economic conditions in rural Georgia.

The situation in Georgia is far from gloomy. There is no occasion for the wolf-cry and it is not heard from the farmer and business man, who have other and more important jobs to do. It is the cry of the demagogue and the radical who thrive upon the distress of others, and feed upon the unrest they seek to create.

Georgia needs more than anything else now less politics, less incendiary thought and action, and more hard work—less destruction and more construction.

THE PASTURE TESTS.

Test pasture meetings, under the auspices of the agricultural department of the Central of Georgia railway, have been held at various points in Georgia during the past several weeks, and will conclude for the time being at meetings today in Floyd and Chattooga counties.

These meetings have aroused widespread interest in better pastures, and in the growing of pure bred live stock for commercial breeding and dairying purposes.

Every meeting, from the opening of the series at Americus on July 16, has been well attended, farmers from the sections for many miles around attending in order to get better understanding of how to make successful pastures, and how to convert the legumes at small cost into profitable live stock production. The meetings have been thoroughly practical, with experienced demonstrators on the ground to instruct in a genuinely helpful manner. While barbecue luncheons have generally been served, the entire service has been based upon the idea of cooperation in helping Georgia get away from the boll weevil menace by at least devoting a goodly portion profitably to other commodities than cotton.

Writing of the pasture tests, pictures of some of which will appear in a subsequent issue of The Constitution, J. F. Jackson, general agricultural agent of the Central of Georgia, says:

"They point the way to such pastures as will make the southeast one of the most prosperous stock raising sections in the country. The rapidly increasing interest in the making of such pastures is most encouraging. Nothing can stop a steady increase in the number of good pastures each year, because every new pasture is the cause of starting at least two or three more. No one can see live stock grazing a pasture of Lepeodes, carpet grass and Dallis grass without realizing that such a pasture is as necessary on a stock farm as a supply of good water. The agricultural department of the Central of Georgia railway believes the establishment of such a pasture as is now known to be possible on every farm in Alabama and Georgia, will place these states in the front rank of the live stock producing states of the union, and therefore feel that through encouraging the building of new pastures as rapidly as possible, they can do more to increase the prosperity of this section than in any other way."

Records kept in 1922 for forty-four of the test pastures with a total of 1,068 acres, show that they grazed for an average period of 278 days, more than one and two-thirds head of mature cattle or their equivalent per acre.

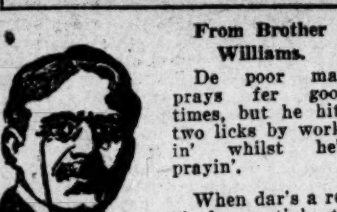

With such proof that pastures may be easily made within a year at comparatively little cost, that will afford grazing for more than one mature animal per acre, it is well that Georgia farmers take an active interest in pasture improvements.

There is no reason why Georgia should not be one of the leading live stock producing states in the union. Alfalfa is one of the best answers to boll weevil in northeast Georgia, as has been amply demonstrated.

These tendencies all show the determination of Georgia farmers to become independent, and the movements are meeting with such wide cooperation that the signs are hopeful and inspiring.

TODAY'S SAFETY TALK

Prepared by the National Safety Council.

Celluloid is an Explosive

Celluloid is similar in composition to the gun cotton used to propel shells from big guns. Celluloid is highly inflammable and under favorable conditions it may explode.

A heated curling iron or even a steam radiator may ignite it. Many persons have been seriously burned while wearing celluloid collars, coats and other articles.

Everyone handling celluloid should know its inflammable and explosive qualities and use the necessary caution in handling it.

The danger may seem trifling and remote but it is the neglect of trifles that is responsible for the frequency of accidents in the home.

The funeral was held from the Lithonia Baptist church with interment in the Lithonia cemetery. Barclay and Brandon were in charge.

Funeral Services

For Mrs. Andrews

Held at Lithonia

Funeral services for Mrs. Harbin Andrews, whose death occurred Wednesday from injuries received in an automobile accident in Atlanta Tuesday afternoon. The accident occurred at the corner of Simpson and Chestnut streets Tuesday afternoon. The little nine-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrews, W. H. Andrews, Jr., was in the mother's arms when the crash occurred, but he was thrown clear of the wreckage by Mrs. Andrews just before she was caught under the car. Mrs. Andrews was a little niece of the driver of the other car, Willie Mae Kent, who was also injured in the collision.

The funeral was held from the Lithonia Baptist church with interment in the Lithonia cemetery. Barclay and Brandon were in charge.

MRS. MARIA SCOTT DIES AT AGE OF 98

Mrs. Maria F. Scott, 98, died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Julius R. Watts, of 21 Crescent avenue. Mrs. Scott was visiting her daughter at the time of her death. Her home for many years has been in Ashland, Neb.

The funeral will be held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Julius R. Watts, of 21 Crescent avenue, at 2 o'clock.

These tendencies all show the determination of Georgia farmers to become independent, and the movements are meeting with such wide cooperation that the signs are hopeful and inspiring.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, August 23.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Forty-second street—east of the avenue. Fruits. Bonbons. And bright jacketed books. Gaudy hotels glowing with grandeur. Kodak shops. Luggage and faked steamer labels. Dr. W. Griffith.

The bubbling life around Grand Central. Ice cream cones. Red balloons. Racing red caps. A stunted jockey of long ago selling souvenirs. The station's high-ceiled rotunda. Like a cathedral. Groups of immigrants in charge of labor agents. Lexington avenue's Soho. Cabbage smells. Piano box cafes. Fifty-cent lodging houses. Hissing phonographs. Idlers listening to the rotary motor. Movies with emotional sounds. Croations. Poles. Greeks. And Lithuanians.

Fortitude Murray Hill around the corner. Frock coats and pearl spats. The two men who always guard Pierpont Morgan home. Superannuated spinsters who sit behind lace curtain windows. Dreaming of the days of saccharine chivalry.

Whatever became of Sergeant York? The site of an old inn where Richard Harding Davis used to loaf. A millinery shop trying to revive the Florida hat. A cat and six kittens. Street Arabs. An organ grinder taking his monkey to a hospital. Wonder if someone needs a gland.

An overturned street car. Something fascinating to me about polishing brass signs. Or laying the floors. Not so much fly swatting this season. Here's a block without an automobile. Oh, I see. "Detour" signs at each end. Grocery store clerks in blue uniforms. They're putting gold epaulettes on garbage men next. Still—let's none of my business. The Constitution goes a fire-wagon. HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

WHY ARE HEALTH EXPERTS?

Nothing whatever "ails me," writes a critic, "and my medical advice or that of any other doctor is the last thing I should seek if I were ill, but my ideas are not those of my wife and daughters, who seem to think your verdict is authoritative on all matters of health or hygiene. I merely wish to ask why every doctor who sets up as an expert on health should take up freak ideas and play them to such extremes?"

The critic here enumerates what he terms the "pet or freak theories" of several teachers of health. Then he hops on to me.

"Your idea is about the freakiest of all. Where under the canopy of heaven did you get that somersault suggestion of yours? Out of Punch? Why do you advocate any such absurd performance in the name of health? Don't you realize that such jokes tend only to destroy confidence and respect sensible folk might have for you and your work? Jolly have the simpletons yes, but don't carry your jokes to such extremes.—R. M. M."

You are right about health teachers being great nuts. At least I think most of the doctors who have set up as teachers of health are. I include myself. What is a nut? A nut is an indecisive, polychromatic fruit having a hard shell and full of meat. It is not unless there is meat inside. A nut is just as good food as beefsteak and brown fried potatoes, but a lot of folk never get the meat.

They learned when they went to school that beefsteak and brown fried potatoes were good food, and nothing was said about nuts in the school books, so that can't sabby nuts, but every body who knows anything knows what good nuts have done for the world. Being called even a little nut is the kind of flattery I like best.

The somersault habit, for health's sake, is far less ridiculous than some of the habits of the bairns you cultivate under the impression that you are conserving your health. Some men of plaster of paris frontality do not know what somersault means

STIGALL CASE READY FOR GRAND JURORS

Solicitor General Boykin announced Thursday that although his investigation of the killing of W. H. Hames, private detective, by E. C. Stigall, former vice squad head of the Atlanta police department, had not been completed, he was fully prepared to present the case at the opening of the September term.

Solicitor Boykin stated that several witnesses to the shooting, which had heretofore escaped notice, had been discovered. Numerous telephone calls, some of which, he said, were anonymous, have been received, telling of parties believed to be eyewitnesses to the tragedy.

Names of the new witnesses could not be secured, but it was declared that their connection with the case would afford important state evidence.

Charming Young Atlanta Girls Passing Before Judges

JUDGES TO NAME BEAUTY WINNER

If she is unable to attend for any reason, the third will become "Miss Atlanta."

Judging is private. As was the case Thursday afternoon, the judging of today will be strictly private, and contestants are urged to bring more than one companion with them.

"Miss Atlanta" will be selected on a basis of beauty of face and form, grace of carriage, charm of manner, poise and general ability to represent the city in a creditable manner. Together with a chaperon of her own selection, she will go to Atlantic City, September 5, 6 and 7 to compete with reigning beauties of a hundred North American cities for the title of "Miss America—the Nation's Fairest Daughter."

With other contestants for the national beauty crown, she will be honored guest of the most famous and fashionable American watering places in an unparalleled program of brilliant events. A colorful rolling chair parade, magnificent balls, a bathing review, a carnival pageant, all the delights of the famous board walk, the fashionable hotels and other places will be features.

Will Be Free. "Miss Atlanta" and her chaperon will take the trip without incurring any expense, and if she wins the national title she will hold for one year the golden statue of a mermaid proclaiming her the most beautiful girl in America. She must win this prize three years to retain it permanently. It is valued at $5,000.

Artists, moving picture producers, sculptors and stage kings from all parts of the world will be present in search of talent, and "Miss Atlanta" will be given special consideration in this respect through courtesy of Howard Kingsmore, manager of the Howard theater, who has agreed to ask this of friends in the motion picture producing game.

Should she decide to adopt a movie career, "Miss Atlanta" will thus be advised in advance of what success she might expect.

And now consider those eyes—designating another contestant—and the clear, limpid brown of their depths. Now the ivory sweep of that shoulder and arm; and there's a girl with hair so vivid that the most helpless amateur could not fail to make a glorious photograph.

And so, from their various points of artistic view, the judges exclaimed and praised and grew more and more interested each moment.

They eliminated all but twelve girls.

and adjourned to meet again Friday afternoon to resume their task. So far they were unwilling to say more than this: "Miss Atlanta"—when finally selected—will be beautiful, charming and refined. She may be a blonde; she may be a brunette. She may be of the dashing, brilliant type, and on the other hand, she may be of the cool, placid school of beauty.

"But you may be more than sure that she will be beautiful."

TOO HIGH WATER PRICE GETS VENDOR ROOM IN PRISON

Omaha, Neb., August 23.—The first "water bootlegger" was arrested here Thursday. Taking advantage of the suspension of city water service following a cave-in in the Missouri river Tuesday which made the water supply unfit to drink, Louis Margolin began hauling water from an artesian well and selling it at "exorbitant prices" in the residential district, police claim.

The water is still about 40 per cent more, and relief is not expected for several days. Fifteen thousand men are out of work and the economic loss from the "famine" is now placed at $5,000,000.

Wearing Trousers, She Smokes Atope St. Mark's Steeple

New York, August 23.—Clad in paint smeared smock, white linen trousers, white shoes and stockings, Miss Wilhelm Schmidt, of Denmark, climbed the steeple on St. Mark's church in the Bowery today to do cement fresco work on the structure.

Her titan hair, unbobbed, was restrained by a broad band of silk. From her lips dangled a cork tipped cigarette which she had paused in her ascent of the towering scaffold to light from a match scratched man fashion.

"I never was dizzy in my life," she remarked.

Miss Schmidt, a student of the royal academy of Copenhagen, came to this country three years ago from Denmark. The reputation her fresco gained in New York won her the contracts for decorating the towering spire of the famous bowery church.

"Why should people gather in the street to stare?" she asked. "I always smoke when I work. European girls think nothing of a puff when they feel like it, and I notice American girls smoke over their coffee cups."

BANDITS CAPTURE CHINESE FUNERAL

Tsinanfu, Shantung, China, August 4.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Reports received by missions here say that while the funeral of a wealthy Chinese was in progress at Fencheng, a small town 25 miles west of here, a number of bandits who had mingled with the mourners opened fire on a soldier guard of ten men, putting them to flight, and that when two soldiers and four civilians had been killed the bandits captured 40 members of the funeral party and are holding them for ransom.

The bandits and their captives are said to be in the hills near Wonsing on the yellow river. Officials of the district are quoted as saying they are unable to cope with the bandits.

STRIKERS CONTROL CITY OF VERA CRUZ

Vera Cruz, August 23.—Vera Cruz is virtually under the control of a committee of strikers which has taken over directions of the police. Order is being maintained.

The envoy sent by President Obregon has returned to Mexico City with striker delegates empowered to negotiate a settlement.

The League of Maritime unions, reconsidering its previous decision, has voted not to declare a strike without financial aid from the striking unions. The dock workers therefore remain at work.

No public utilities are in operation.

ESTABLISHES RECORD IN MOTORLESS PLANE

Vauville, France, August 23.—Georges Barbot, the French aviator, flying in a motorless airplane, yesterday covered 212 kilometers (approximately 132.5 miles) over an official measured circuit. This is a record distance for this type of machine. Barbot remained in the air 6 hours 4 minutes and 21 seconds.

ROBERT J. NORTHCUTT ILL AT MARIETTA HOME

Marietta, Ga., August 23.—(Special.)—Robert J. Northcutt, president of the Marietta Knitting company, and one of the city's most prominent citizens, was stricken with paralysis on Wednesday night, and is in a critical condition at his home here.

Mr. Northcutt has been in failing health for several years. He had given up all of his active business connections, except the presidency of the Marietta Knitting company, in which his sons, Ralph W. and Guy Northcutt, are associated with him.

Wednesday afternoon Mr. Northcutt attended the baseball game here and seemed unusually well and happy. Later in the evening, while riding with his wife, he was taken suddenly ill and had to be carried home.

Physicians hold out little hope for his recovery. He is entirely paralyzed on one side.

The plane carrying mail that left the Golden Gate yesterday morning in the second flight landed at New York at 12:22 p.m., spanning the continent in 27 hours and 56 minutes, four minutes under the estimated 28 hours.

The plane westbound from the Atlantic seaboard landed at San Francisco at 1:45 o'clock, two and one-half hours ahead of schedule.

Meanwhile the third flight gave promise of equaling or bettering the record of the second.

McCord's Bulletin

For the Boll Weevil

The fight against the Boll Weevil is the most important fight now going on in the Southern States. It means millions to Georgia.

Calcium Arsenate is the ammunition, and the best way to use it is to mix it with molasses, which will keep it from washing off the plant. The Calcium Arsenate is only effective as long as it sticks, and the dry powder will not stick long.

Cheap molasses won't add much to the cost and will make it far more effective.

How to Use It

Mix one pound of Calcium Arsenate with a gallon of hot water. Then add one gallon of molasses and stir well.

Apply with a spray or dab it on with a mop.

Try this thoroughly and it will do you a world of good.

We call attention to this, both for the general good and because we have molasses to sell—C. O. Molasses, which you can buy at the lowest price.

BOSWORTH TO SPEAK ON HEALING TONIGHT

A sermon on healing 'will be the feature of the Bosworth revival meeting tonight at the Gospel tabernacle. The evening services are held at 7:45 o'clock with the exception of Saturday.

Southern spiritual songs are sung by the Bosworth brothers and Mrs. B. B. Bosworth at each evening service.

In his sermon Thursday night, Rev. Bosworth said:

"Self-will is the worst thing in the universe. Cancer and all sorts of disease are better than that.

"I never count every man who goes to the altar or the prayer room as a convert. I ask what are they converted from and what are they converted to?"

"God says: 'Let him forsake his way, because it is the wrong way. It is wicked for you to have your way, because it stands in competition with divine purposes. As soon as a man is converted, he is converted to God's will. God Almighty is incapable of willing anything for you and me which is not absolutely right and true and perfect. You will never find that which will satisfy your soul until you find the center of God's will.

"God has a well-defined program for each of us, and to my mind it is a divine tragedy if we are not gripped by this and converted to God's will. You don't have to hunt for happiness all the time, just trust God and He will fill you to overflowing with happiness."

?Why the Weather?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS.

Secretary American Meteorological Society, Discusses

Altitude and the Boiling Point.

The higher you go the lower is the temperature at which water boils. To use an approximate figure, the boiling point is lowered 1.8 degrees Fahrenheit for each thousand feet of altitude. To use the familiar Mt. Washington as an example, while water is boiling at 212 degrees in Boston it is boiling at 201 degrees on the mountain top, a difference sufficient to affect cooking, for temperature being less a longer time is required in cooking food or making tea. To take a more extreme case, on the Bolivian plateau in South America, 12,500 feet above sea level, it is impossible to cook potatoes by boiling, for no greater temperature than 100 degrees can be obtained in a kettle and this is insufficient. On Mt. Blanc, over 15,000 feet high, water boils at 185 degrees, and it is practically impossible to make tea. It is said of people who have lived on the Bolivian plateau that on going down to the coast they must guard against hot soups lest they burn their mouths, so accustomed have they become to lower temperatures.

NOTICE OF REWARD

It has come to my attention that the law of the State of Georgia has been flagrantly violated in the Counties of Bibb and Baldwin in the instances of the recent outrages in these counties. The Ku Klux Klan stands for law and order. It has dedicated its every power and influence to the suppression of crime through the regularly constituted officers of the law and in building a sentiment for the strict enforcement of our laws. Representing the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, the undersigned hereby gives notice that he is increasing the rewards already offered by the Governor of this State for the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties in the sum of Fifteen Hundred ($1,500.00) Dollars in each county.

BIRMINGHAM BARONS TRY TO DEFEAT CRACKERS

Second Battle Called Off In Eighth Frame, Tied 1-1; Oscar Tuero Knocked Out

Manager Otto Miller Proves Batting Hero of Day, Driving in Most of the Runs Scored by Crackers.

SHRINE TICKET SALE.
Tickets for the clash of Shrine baseball teams, Yaarnab, of Atlanta, and Zamora, of Birmingham, Saturday at Ponce de Leon park, for the benefit of the local organization's charity chest, were put on sale yesterday at Stuart Murray's stands at Chess Place. Those shopping early will save themselves the trouble of standing in line at Ponce de Leon, for a big crowd is certain to attend. The Zamora outfit will arrive bright and early Saturday morning, accompanied by a delegation of rooters and the splendid band that has often appeared in this city. The Atlanta team, in working out daily at Grant field and is ready for action.

Birmingham, Ala., August 23.—(Special.)—Manager Stuffy Stewart's climbing Barons reached third place for the second time this week in the Southern league pennant hunt here this afternoon when the Crackers were defeated, 8 to 7, in ten innings in the first game, while the second affair was called at the end of the eighth with the score tied one all.

The Crackers scored their seven runs in the first game on but three safe hits, two of those coming when men were in scoring position and Manager Otto Miller did the majority of the damage for he drove in a run in the first inning with a long sacrifice fly; sent two runners across the plate in the fifth on a single and scored Moore from second with another single in the tenth inning.

The Barons won the first game in the tenth inning after the Crackers had forced ahead in their half. Manager Stewart singled to start. Jake Miller walked. Pop Robertson fouled out and Stewart tied the count on the play. Miller singled past third and Robertson scored the winning run.

Whitehill Retires.
Earl Whitehill was on the mound in the first game for the Barons but his wildness caused his retirement in the fifth inning. The Crackers had scored four runs without the aid of a single hit when Brady relieved Whitehill. Brady finished the game and received credit for the victory.

Three Crackers runs were scored in the first inning. Heck walked to start. Guyon worked Whitehill

Druid Hills Golf Outfit Trims Ansley Park Team

Record-Breaking Gallery Is Expected to Follow Stirling - Jones - Adair - Maiden Match Saturday.

The count between the golf teams representing Ansley Park and Druid Hills now stands all square following the latter's victory yesterday on its home course. Last week the Ansley Park golfers won at Ansley Park and the series is one-all. Splendid golf was unrolled, little Billy Jones being among the low scorers with a 78. Al Jones and Joe High Williams contributed two of the feature shots of the encounter by scoring birdies on the 15th and 16th. Bill Spaulding came through with a birdie three on the third to defeat George Edmondson's par four.

The Parks and L. L. Shivers, representing Druid Hills, won one point from Jess Daniel and Dr. Grady Clay. Toss Bradshaw and Allen Jerrett to Lewis Cutter and Ben A. Jones, putting the Ansley Park warriors in front, but this advantage was soon wiped away when Roger Jones, paired with Perry Adair, southern amateur champion, won three points from Ben Jones and Billy Jones. Bill Spaulding and Jim Dickey, Druid Hills, won two points from George Edmondson and Joe High Williams.

Interest in Match Saturday.
Atlanta golfers are properly keyed up over the coming Saturday. A Maiden golf match which will be played at East Lake Saturday afternoon and it is believed that the attendance

Batling Budd and Jaekle Slated To Battle Tuesday

Toledo Lightweight Is One of the Most Feared Men in His Division—Is a Youngster in Years.

The American Legion has arranged its next boxing card and set Tuesday night as the date, with Splitter Bow as the scene of festivities. Battling Budd, welterweight battler of Atlanta, has been signed to meet K. O. Jaekle, of Toledo, who has been blazing a trail through the lightweight and welterweight divisions for the past two years. Only a comparative youngster in the game Jaekle has made a name for himself in a short period of mugging. He is today one of the most feared men of middleweight. He fights with the top-notchers of his weight, numbering among the men he has fought: Pete Hartley, of New York; Henry Adams, of Toledo; Sid Barbarian, of Detroit; Bud Christiano, of Chicago; Ever Hamman, of the same city; Tony Zill, of Youngstown; K. O. Jones, of Cincinnati; Frankie Callahan, Jimmy Brady, the Detroit star; Teddy Meyers, of Buffalo, and there are many others. Jaekle has never before appeared in the cotton belt, most of his fighting being confined to Ohio, where he is a wonderful draw.

Matchmaker Walk Miller believes called on account of darkness at the end of the seventh inning with score 5 to 5. Chattanooga won the first game 14 to 4.

"Johnny Get Your Gun."

(At the Forsyth.)

With only three more performances of "Johnny Get Your Gun," to be presented at the Forsyth theater, indications are that the demand for tickets will exceed by far the supply of seats in the cozy little theater, where the players have held forth for 15 weeks.

The remarkable hit comedy made in New York and other eastern cities has been fully justified by the unusual merit it has shown in Atlanta, where six audiences have laughed until they verged on hysterics at the ludicrous and comically exciting developments, Fred Raymond, Jr., has added real laurels for his work in the central role, that of "Johnny Wiggin," "Movin' picture" actor and cowboy who saves his life by the skin of his teeth, and as for the other players, beginning Monday night, it combines much comedy with a gripping romance and several episodes that approach the spectacular.

Loew Vaudeville.

(At Loew's Grand.)

Lovers of jazz and syncopated melodies can ask nothing more than the entertainment of the Loew's Grand theater for the last half of the week at Loew's Grand theater as the charming star of Loew's Grand theater, accompanied by two artistic dancers, and Chaucery Grey's jazz orchestra is furnishing one of the really big successes of the present vaudeville season.

Louise Bowers has several new blues songs that go over big and all of her more than liberal with her numbers and as for the orchestra it will compare favorably with any that has ever appeared at Loew's. Taking the act as a whole it is a big hit and finally it is one closing offering that holds everybody in their seats.

Nell Fulton and Bert Robins have a rube act called "At the Town Pump" that fairly bubbles over with comedy and wins with its originality.

Atlanta to Liverpool

In Five Minutes

Soon to Be Reality

"Atlanta to Liverpool in five minutes" will be a reality in two months, when the new office building of the Atlanta Commercial Exchange is opened.

Arrangements have been made, it was learned Thursday from J. Hope Tigner, secretary of the Atlanta Commercial Exchange, for the exchange to be in almost direct communication with the Liverpool cotton exchange with the opening of the new quarters of the exchange in this city.

As a concrete example of what this means, a cotton house located in this city could at 9 o'clock sharp put in an order to Liverpool by wire on the floor of the Atlanta Commercial Exchange. In five minutes that wire would have been read by the representative of a Liverpool house, the order executed immediately, and the confirmation on its way back during the next few minutes.

This quick time will be made possible by a direct wire to the New York cotton exchange already in operation, and by the fact that a message can be immediately handed to a cable operator on the floor of the New York exchange and sent on its way across the ocean.

Such quick service has never before been enjoyed by cotton men, and was only recently made possible when the cable office was placed on the floor of the New York cotton exchange.

New York, August 23.—Irregular and inclusive of price movements characterized today's stock market with the general feeling of a heavy tone during most of the session. Except in a few issues, which were bid up or hammered down for individual reasons, the market was characterized by a disposition to wait further developments bearing on the economic situation before extending their commitments.

Unfavorable oil strike and reparations news resulted in a rather large volume of overnight selling orders, which gave the market a heavy appearance at the start. These offerings were fairly well absorbed, however, although individual points of weakness continued to crop out during the day.

Gold Steel was again pushed up on southern buying, closing 11-14 higher at $212. Bethlehem closed 1-4 down, but the other independent steel issues were steady.

Earnings of the steel companies in the first half of the third quarter are reported to compare favorably with the corresponding period of the second quarter.

A slight falling off in the last half of the quarter is expected, however, as a result of the increased expense involved in the gradual elimination of the 10-hour day.

E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, declared, however, that it will be three months before the effect of the change in working day on costs and prices can be determined. Rail business for shipments next year is being booked at present prices.

One of the features of today's session was the heavy buying of General Motors by the last hour, several blocks of 5,000 shares each changing hands at 15-1/2 up 1-4. Mullins Body also was fairly active, closing 2-1/2 points higher. Mack Truck showed a net gain of 2 points, but the other automotive shares showed little change.

Strength of the Erie issues was based on reports of a merger with a coal company that had perfected a new selling arrangement for its coal which would bring it increased income. Erie's stock closed 1-1/2 points higher.

Below that for a gain of 1-3/8, the first preferred advanced 2-3/8 and the second preferred 1-7/8. Recent earnings of the Erie railroad also have been unusually good.

Famous Players, International Harvester, Allied Chemical and National Lead were the conspicuous weak spots, losing 2 to 2 points.

Call money held at 5 per cent all day. The time money market was at 5-1/4 per cent, the highest rate for some time.

RUSSIA DEMANDS ANSWER TO NOTE

Moscow, August 23.—Russia intends to oppose the British occupation of Wrangel island, the scrap of Arctic territory on which the English flag has been hoisted.

Foreign Minister Tchitcherin, Thursday, addressed a new note to Britain, protesting against the fact that England has not answered the two previous Russian notes on the subject.

He points out that Baron Wrangel discovered the island more than 100 years ago, and that it has since been entered on all maps and acknowledged by all powers as Russian territory.

Tchitcherin declares that Russia regards the act of England as a violation of Russian sovereignty, and asserts Russia's full claim to the territory.

English sources declare that Baron Wrangel, noted Russian Arctic explorer, did not discover the island at the time of his cruises in northern seas, but that it was later named after him. It is said that the island actually belonged to no nation before England claimed it.

The present interest in the tiny bit of barren frozen soil is understood to have arisen when explorers pointed out that "Wrangel island" is ideally situated at a half way point fueling station for future airplane routes across the polar seas.

SAUNDERS ANSWERS IN SUIT FOR AUDIT

Memphis, Tenn., August 23.—Clarence Saunders today filed in federal court here his answer to the bill filed yesterday by the Piggy Wiggy corporation which asked an accounting of his expenditures while president of the company and an injunction restraining him from disposing of further stock of the company.

The answer denies that any stock belonging to him personally was bought or sold and that any stock of any kind was purchased or sold for his personal account.

In an amended bill also filed today the former head of Piggy Wiggy Stores, Inc., and the Piggy Wiggy corporation asks that the court determine the amount which the corporation owes him from sundry transactions, in addition to asking a receiver for the corporation as sought by the original bill filed last week.

The receivership petition and the corporation's bill filed yesterday are both set for hearing here tomorrow morning.

All transactions carried on in Saunders' name or in the name of the Piggy Wiggy investment company—a concern organized months ago to market stock of the stores company—were carried on for the benefit of the corporation and his name was used on the advice of the corporation counsel, Mr. Saunders answer sets forth.

It declares that the former Piggy Wiggy executive will abide by the order of the court in regard to the accounting requested and that he has no desire to dispose of any notes or cash held by him.

The bill alleges that the corporation in addition to listed liabilities of $1,105,000 is indebted to the stores company in the sum of $400,000, which sum, the answer recites, "is past due."

Further, the bill sets forth, Saunders contracted obligations to the corporation for the benefit of the corporation.

Among "valuable assets" of the corporation listed in the answer is a suit against the New York Stock Exchange for $500,000.

Detain Every Woman With Infant, Order Issued by Police

New York, August 23.—Still without a definite clue after six days of ferret search for three-month-old Lillian McKenzie, who was kidnapped from her carriage in front of a store last Saturday, Detective Captain Funston today issued an order for the detention of every woman who is seen with a small infant and who acts at all suspiciously.

Clue after clue has been run down by the 165 detectives detailed to the case, while all the city's policemen and taxi cab drivers have been on the lookout for the missing child. But these efforts, as well as appeals broadcast throughout the country, have failed to produce results.

Clubs of Cuba Demand Wave Of Reform Law

Havana, Cuba, August 23.—General Garcia Velez, president of the Assembly of Veterans and Patriots, has sent a communication to the national council of Veterans of the War of Independence, stating that a request has been sent to the Cuban congress demanding the following reforms:

Abolition of the lottery law.

Rejection of the Tarafa bill, as prejudicial to the interests of the republic.

Inclusion in the national budget of a provision for payment of pensions to widows and orphans of veterans of the war of independence.

Assistance is asked of the veterans. A general meeting of all veterans in the country has been called for next Wednesday to take action on pending legislation.

FURY OF TORRENT SPENT ON CROPS

Pueblo, Colo., August 23.—Its first fury expended in a mad dash down the Arkansas river valley to the junction with the Arkansas river and slightly beyond, flood waters which burst from the Apishapa irrigation reservoir 30 miles south of Fowler, Colo., late last night were rolling down the lower stretches of the Arkansas valley today, steadily diminishing in volume and destructiveness.

Although the inundation of the lowlands along the upper reaches of the two streams in the state is believed to have caused property damage estimated at $1,000,000, rendered at least 1,000 persons homeless, swept away at least 1,200 feet of railroad track and demoralized train and automobile traffic and telephone and telegraph communication, the crest of the flood apparently passed quickly and the river began to recede almost immediately after the first rush of water.

Hundreds of residents along the meandering course of the Arkansas, through the valley swept by the most disastrous flood in the history of the state two years ago, warned late yesterday and early today of the breaking of the Apishapa dam, releasing an 80-foot wall of water, fled from their homes, taking with them household goods and such belongings as they could hastily gather together.

Scores of homes close to the stream were reported inundated, a few were reported swept away and some live stock, farm buildings and implements were caught in the rush of water which inundated acres of growing crops as it burst over the river banks.

Early today as the crest of the flood passed towns further down the Arkansas valley and remained in the banks of the river despite a rise which frequently threatened approaches to railroad and wagon bridges, residents began returning to their homes, and danger was believed to have passed.

Wife Scorns Husband When He Plans Home Taking in Other Love

Chicago, August 23.—The suggestion made by Walton R. Owens that Miss Hazel Hower, "the other woman," and mother of his unborn child, share their home caused Mrs. Owens to file suit for divorce here Wednesday.

Owens had told his wife, her attorney claims, that he must stick with the girl, and suggested that it would be "wonderful" for all three to live together. The divorce bill states Owens also said, "when you areas beautiful as she is, you may be able to hold a husband."

Owens is western manager for a New York manufacturer.

MELON BUYER SEEKS RELEASE IN MACON

Macon, Ga., August 23.—(Special.) J. B. Beck, watermelon buyer of Barnwell, S. C., today sought his release from custody on charges brought against him in connection with the alleged passing of worthless checks.

Through counsel he filed a writ of habeas corpus, which Judge H. A. Matthews, of Bibb superior court, set for hearing tomorrow morning. Certain irregularities in the extradition proceedings are alleged.

The checks are alleged to have been passed in South Carolina and the order requires Sheriff Kers Sanders, of Barnwell, S. C., to show cause why Beck should not be given his freedom.

Beck claims checks for thousands of dollars were honored in previous transactions.

JAP PREMIER DIES; END NOT EXPECTED

Tokyo, Japan, August 23.—Premier Baron Tominoburo Kato, of Japan, died here Thursday, following a period of ill health, due, it is believed, to overwork.

Stanley Zolavinski, the father, objected so strenuously to giving his wife money for family expenses that she went to the domestic relations court for help. Judge Moran instructed Zolavinski to give his daughter $24 a week and the young girl to run the budget on that amount.

Josephine even saved money, and after a month, a happy family reported to the judge Thursday.

Josephine's job has now been made permanent.

Officials Named By Stamboulisky Face Death Charge

Sofia, August 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Eleven of the late Stamboulisky cabinet now under arrest will be tried on charges involving the death penalty, including bribery, incitement to riot and murder, Minister of Justice Smiloff announced today.

The accused ministers are Mm. Zografsky, Atanasoff, Radoloff, Dupartoff, Pavloff, Marchevsky, Muravieff, Tomoff, Tourlakoff and Manoloff.

The Stamboulisky cabinet was overthrown early in June and Premier Stamboulisky himself was killed during an alleged attempt at rescue.

Samurai families, of Hiroshima Olan. Since the day of his entrance to the naval academy, Baron Kato was a very particular and independent lad, having the nickname of Kato No Tomo. As early as those days Baron Kato was already showing signs of his characteristic silent attitude.

Baron Kato's naval career, since he became a midshipman at the age of 24, has been a succession of steady promotions. His strength of character was, however, best shown, when in the Russo-Japanese war, he took an active part in the battle of the Japan sea, as chief of staff of the Kamimura squadron. That squadron fought the battle under the most untoward circumstances, with the consequence that people accused it of utter incompetency, if not actual treachery, and there were many rough demonstrations to show the public anger. Kato kept up the esprit de corps of his officers and sailors.

Although Baron Kato served as naval minister in four successive ministries, and was the originator of the naval plan of the so-called "8-8 fleet," it must be remembered that fate had it that he himself represented Japan at the arms conference in Washington, where he agreed to a drastic scrap of the navy, in conjunction with other nations. His fame suddenly rose in the eyes of the world as the most up-to-date statesman of the new age.

Better Films Body Holds Important Meeting Thursday

At the August meeting of the better films committee held in the room of the Piedmont hotel Thursday, a number of interesting reports were given, following the delicious luncheon served.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president, opened the meeting, and following the usual business matters, Mrs. Porter Langston gave an outline of plans for the children's matinee.

A trip to Stone Mountain is being arranged for the children, and, according to Mrs. Longson, it will come off about the 7th of September.

All members of the committee were invited to chaperon the trip, and Mrs. Langston gave a few details already under way in preparation of the great event, which point to a great success and a good time for the children.

Boyce Edens contributed much to the interest of the meeting by a highly instructive talk on the non-theatrical program for the committee. In the course of the lecture, Mr. Edens pointed out the crying need for educational and non-theatrical films all over the country, and showed by concrete illustration the university of appeal in the films of that type.

Mrs. Willard Patterson talked most interestingly of the impression the Atlanta better films committee has made upon New York managers. Mrs. Patterson is recent back from New York, and brought with her a list of the worth while pictures now running there, and which will come to Atlanta this winter.

In the absence of Mrs. McCord Roberts, Miss Leonora Anderson was acting secretary.

Mrs. Roberts is spending the week in Asheville where she is successfully assisting in the establishing of a better film committee there. Mrs. Patterson announced that she has had news from Mrs. Roberts to the effect that already there is begun a temporary organization which bids fair to turn into a permanent and influential organization.

Following the luncheon there was a meeting of the executive board.

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Belts and Girdles Are to Be Had Even When Beltness Is Predicted as Part of the Coming Mode.

"The unbelted effect" is something of which dressmakers, dress designers and the purveyors of women's clothes speak glibly. Whatever else fashion does or doesn't do, it will doubt develop along the lines of the frock that shows a straight, unbelted line—in the front if not all around. With this will come an increased tendency to drape and fit the frock in at the waistline.

But don't imagine that all this talk about beltness means that women aren't going to wear belts and girdles. No fashion devised for women ever has a chance to become thoroughly standardized. By the time winter comes you will doubtless own one or two frocks without vestige of belt or girder and they will hang in your wardrobe beside other frocks that are completely girdled or belted. This, however, seems pretty certain—the effect of waist definition will probably come about through the fitting or draping of the unbelted frock—and not by the use of a belt or girder. Belts and girdles when worn will be part of the frock that retains the long, straight line from shoulder to hip. And there is a large number of smartly dressed, conservative women on both sides of the Atlantic who are amazingly stubborn about giving up this straight, long-waisted type of frock, and with it we may still wear a belt or girder.

Some of the new organdie or tulle frocks made with a multitude of ruffles, frills or flounces show ribbon girdles placed somewhat below the normal waistline. Black ribbon is sometimes used for such girdles on white or other light colors. If you are ambitious enough to attempt one of these organdie or tulle evening gowns you can shift the task of making the girder to the shop where you buy the ribbon, for usually there is an expert manipulator of ribbon who will make your ribbon into any desired bow or rosette, free or for a very slight fee. The sketch shows how black satin ribbon may be used with a rosette, in the center of which tiny artificial fruits are placed.

Then there is the man who combines breakfast and the reading of the morning paper—with him a wife's pleasant expression would be entirely wasted.

After all it is largely a matter of habit. One of the chief objections to the very light breakfast is that many persons think that with so limited a breakfast they can consume it in five or ten minutes. Good manners at the breakfast table then stand on a very shaky foundation. Children see their parents eating in haste, and they follow the example. Of real conversation there is none, what remarks are made are brief in the extreme.

On the other hand the house where the habit is to spend a half hour at breakfast really is a very much more cheerful place. Leisure of any sort seems out of place in the morning. Many people have hurried to breakfast in the morning for so many years that even when they have perfect leisure they feel that they must hurry in the morning, dress hurriedly, hurry to breakfast and hurry through breakfast. A little leisure in the morning before the day's work begins is not such a bad idea. One very efficient housewife habitually sits right after breakfast for about a half hour on her veranda in summer and in the living room in winter, reading or working at some favorite bit of needlework. She insists that she can accomplish much more during the day if she takes this little rest between breakfast and the work of the day.

BLACKHEADS.

Last week I gave one treatment for curing the tiny blackheads that follow large pores, but I did not give the blackhead cleansing powder, which is an effective treatment for all blackheads, but particularly for large ones. This is made as follows:

Blackhead Cleansing Powder.

Wheat or corn starch.....2 oz.
Powdered borax.....1 oz.
Almond meal.....1 oz.
This is a somewhat drying powder that penetrates the enlarged pores of the skin, absorbs the oily greasy blackheads and, when washed out, brings a large part with it. As it is so drying I advise its use in place of soap, for it has extraordinary cleansing powers.

First, wash the skin with hot water. Wring a soft old towel out of hot water and hold it over the face for about five minutes, renewing it as it grows cold. By this time the skin will be red and the pores open from the heat.

While the face is wet, take a quantity of the powder on the finger tips and rub it in thoroughly. As the skin absorbs it rub in more, and finally rinse it all off with hot water. Rub in a little cold cream then, for the skin will be dry. Rinse with cold water or rub the face with ice.

This treatment is for all cases where blackheads are numerous or where they cannot be squeezed out. An occasional, prominent blackhead can be squeezed out after the skin has been softened by steaming with hot water, by pressing a watch key over the place, or by rolling the fingers in a clean handkerchief, and using them to press down the skin on each side. After they have been squeezed out the skin must be rinsed for some time with very cold water to close these enlarged pores; if not a new blackhead will form.

Louise:—A girl of 16 years who is five feet in height is normal at 110 pounds. Eat less starchy or sweet foods, and get as much exercise outdoors as you can. If you could play tennis every day it would give you all the exercise that you need to keep your figure looking trim.

T. I. C.:—If you had included your address I should have been glad to mail you the formula for the cream. Write again and send with it a stamped, addressed envelope.

J. A. K.:—Consult your doctor about the trouble with ankles swelling during the day.

M. M.:—The reason why rain water is recommended for the skin is because it is free from alkali. Another way to put it is the fact that the water is soft.

Tomorrow—The Growth of the Nails.

Ancient Plats Now on Exhibit Attract Crowd

An exhibition at once unique and attractive has been placed on view in a window of the Adair Realty & Trust company, at the corner of Walton and Forsyth streets, where a large number of people gather daily to examine the ancient plats that were used more than a half century ago by the founder of this firm, the late Col. G. W. Adair. Colonel Adair, father of Forrest Adair, senior member of the present firm, sold a large proportion of the property that now makes up the central business portion of Atlanta, it has been declared.

The old plats, many of them yellow with age, form objects of much interest to those who view them. They show engineer's drawings of many centrally located properties that sold at that time for ridiculously low prices, when compared with the millions they would bring today if placed upon sale by an auctioneer.

Among the plats is one showing the property on which the Healey building now stands, and which was advertised in the language of the late Colonel Adair as "a desirable residence section for the 'energetic business man who wishes a place close-in to the business district.'"

It was also announced that in addition to being adjacent to the heart of the city, this property had the advantage of water, gas, good pavement and other civic improvements.

Another parcel advertised by Colonel Adair for sale at public outcry was the corner of Walton and Fairlie streets, which was said to be in a most promising section, potential of development, and close in "for those wishing residences not too far removed from the business center of Atlanta."

Large crowds gather throughout the day to examine the old manuscripts and many interesting reminiscences have been brought forth from older citizens to whose minds stories of former days are recalled by the ancient plats. The books will be on view for several days, it was announced, and anyone interested is invited to come and examine them.

Indorses Park Bond Issue

MRS. GUSSIE B. IVEY.

Prominent Atlanta business woman, member of real estate profession, who, before leaving for trip to Alaska, gives out ringing indorsement of central park bond issue.

Mrs. Gussie B. Ivey, prominent real estate dealer and leader among civic workers of Atlanta, has given out a strong indorsement of central park and other recreation centers, saying that each Atlanta woman should take the coming park bond election as a personal and individual responsibility, because of its relation to the welfare of the children of the city.

"Every woman in Atlanta should regard the election for a bond issue for parks on September 5 as an individual responsibility, since nothing so directly affects the home as having sufficient playgrounds for the children of any community."

The statement was made by Mrs. Ivey on the eve of her departure for a three months' stay in Alaska and California.

Keep Children Off Streets.

"It will keep the children off the streets," says Mrs. Ivey, "and provide wholesome recreation, made all the more necessary by the increasing number of apartment houses being built in Atlanta. A prominent educator recently said in an address: 'Give me a free hand to provide a recreational and athletic program for your boys and girls and the problem of discipline in the schools is ninety per cent solved.'"

"It is true that the building of the Central park near the Georgia School of Technology will greatly enhance the value of the school and all the property in that vicinity. That entire section will be greatly improved and beautified, and that is an important consideration, because what benefits one benefits all. The building of the Belmont apartment on Peachtree street increased the value of one piece of property in that vicinity $50,000. That sort of thing is reflected in the prosperity of the entire community."

"But the greatest good that will come from the proposed Central park and from spending $100,000 in the other eleven wards for park purposes, will come from the fact that adequate parks will attract a class of people who are the very backbone of our cities—the home builders."

Mean Good Government.

"The men and women interested in good government are the ones who have something of their own to govern—the pride of possession is the greatest incentive for splendid and law abiding citizenship. Our home owners are the fathers and mothers of our future citizens, and it is this class of people who are going to be attracted to the communities where there are parks and playgrounds."

"Atlanta is way behind other cities in the matter of public parks. Just how much bearing this has on the congestion in the juvenile court can hardly be estimated. We are hearing a great deal about delinquent boys and girls, while any authority on the subject will tell us that bad boys and girls are simply boys and girls who have not been provided with the outlet for their energies. All the larger cities have worked out this problem, and provide enormous parking areas for the benefit of the many who, forced to live in apartments, must have a playground. The large proposed Central park will be the ideal playground for the central and congested part of Atlanta, where there are so many apartments.

CHAPTER LIX.

Deepening Mystery.
Then—then you think that Valerie has helped to kidnap this child? Gloria asked Larry. "Oh, I can't believe that. It's impossible!"

"Not so very. She's been under quite a strain lately. I've noticed that, and surely you must have seen it, being with her as much as you have. And she's none too sound financially—now, is she?"

"Well, no, she isn't," Gloria answered slowly. "She has to be awfully careful about money. But I can't believe—"

"Then that's settled; you'll go to the ball game with me this afternoon—and I'll call for you at one, and we'll have luncheon together." Larry broke in suddenly. Gloria stared, then understood, as Valerie closed the hall door behind her and entered the room.

"Oh—you here?" she asked Larry, and her voice betrayed her displeasure. That was unusual. As a rule, Valerie concealed her feelings, no matter how strong they were. She went over to Gloria's chair and held out her arms for the baby, whom Gloria gave up reluctantly. "I'll take him now—so good of you to look after him all this time," she murmured, and went down the corridor to her own room.

"Gloria!" Larry exclaimed softly, as Valerie's door closed behind her. "That child's father must be notified at once that his child is here. He's got to know, before Mrs. Eaton and her confederates take the baby away somewhere. They'll hold it until Brewer's wife gets the money she wants out of him. And she has no right to the child—she's already signed papers relinquishing all right to him, and she's never cared anything for him at all. I'm going to go downstairs and phone Brewer!"

"Oh, no—not until we can arrange things somehow so that Valerie won't be involved, please!" begged Gloria. "It would get her into such dreadful trouble. Why, they imprison people for kidnapping, don't they? And she wouldn't have done it if she hadn't been absolutely desperate. I know! Let's give her a chance. Let me go in and talk to her for a few moments, first, Larry. I think I can get her to give up the child to me, and then you could take it back to its people, and they'd be glad enough to get it so that they wouldn't insist on knowing who took the baby—don't you see? You could make that condition of returning it—that they wouldn't ask where you got it."

"Then they'd think I kidnapped the kid," Larry told her, grinning. "That would be sweet, wouldn't it?"

"Oh, no, they wouldn't. You'd have a perfect alibi, wouldn't you? Weren't you working last night?"

"Yes—I was in the office from two o'clock till six, and the child disappeared at three. Still—oh, well, if you want to do it this way, go ahead and talk to Mrs. Eaton—show her that she's sure to be found out if she tries to get away with this. She must be pretty hard up to get mixed up in it at all. Tell me, Gloria—how well do you know Mrs. Eaton?"

Mrs. Eaton's room was empty.

"Why, not so very well—that is, I never knew her at all before she chaperoned me. She had been at school with Virginia, my cousin, you see. Then she married, and Virginia lost track of her, but they met again here in New York when we were here after Virginia's wedding, and when we came back to stay here, Virginia remembered Mrs. Eaton and asked her to chaperone me. That's all. I'm awfully fond of her, you know—she's been a perfect darling to me."

Larry said nothing. Gloria's affection for her friend was so sincere that he hesitated to tell her the truth—that Valerie Eaton was an adventuress, and had been under suspicion before Gloria came to stay with her. He had wanted to warn the girl's people, but it was evident that Valerie, whatever her own interests involved her in, always kept Gloria clear of all harm. Gloria was a great asset to her, of course, but he realized that Mrs. Eaton was really fond of the girl, and knowing that Gloria would not be with her much longer, he had decided that the girl was safe with her.

Valerie's really one of the finest women I've ever known. She always plays fair, Larry; you can always depend on her. And she's been such a darling to me. I'm sure she was doing nothing wrong unless she had such good reason for it that she felt that anything she might do was absolutely justified. And even if I knew she was doing wrong, I'd want to defend and protect her. You'll help me, won't you?"

"I'd help you to commit a murder if you wanted me to!" he told her vehemently.

"Well, I don't want to do that—but if you have to become a kidnaper temporarily, you won't mind, will you? I—oh, there's the telephone. It was Frank Carver who phoned. He wanted Gloria to dine with him that evening. When she refused he urged her to accept; she had never known him to be so insistent. Usually he was offended when one of his invitations was refused, and sulked about it."

"Please, Gloria—I want so much to see you!" he begged. "I want to—oh, you know what I want to talk about. I want to tell you again how much I care for you, and see if I can't make you change your mind about marrying me. I—why, I'd do anything on earth for you, child! You know that—anything on earth! You're going to accept me some day, aren't you? Why not do it now?"

"No, truly, I can't!" she protested. "I have an engagement for this evening—one I made a long time ago, that I can't possibly break." And when he finally accepted her refusal, she hung up the receiver with a sigh of relief. Larry Gordon, who had been watching her as she talked, smiled at that. He had known of Carver's devotion, and had been rather worried about it. Carver was a man whose position might well turn any girl's head, and though he knew that Gloria was supplied with common sense, he felt uneasy, nevertheless.

"Now I'll go in and talk to Valerie," exclaimed Gloria, as she crossed the room. "I'm sure she'll be—oh, what was that?"

A door had slammed sharply somewhere in the apartment. Gloria ran to Mrs. Eaton's room, with Larry close behind her. The door was locked, and Larry had to force it. The room was empty.

NAPIER TO ATTEND MEET FOR PROBE INTO GAS PRICES

George M. Napier, attorney general of Georgia, Thursday announced he will attend a meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General in Minneapolis next week to discuss ways and means of securing "lower and fair prices on gasoline."

The conference will be held August 27-28, Mr. Napier said, adding he decided to attend after conferring with Governor Walker. Attorneys general of Kansas, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Arkansas, Louisiana and other states will be directly interested in the discussion of the gasoline situation, Mr. Napier continued.

An investigation of prices charged for gasoline has been underway for the past ten days and one report already has been submitted to Governor Walker.

"I have several interesting developments to reveal in the second report I am planning to give to the governor before leaving for Minneapolis," the attorney general said.

Perfecting the Profile

Naomi Childers, owner of one already perfect, tells how it is done.

NAOMI CHILDERS

Have you ever happened to catch sight of the side of your face in a double mirror? Unless you chance to be a particularly fortunate person like Naomi Childers, you generally think to yourself: "I seem to know that homely face somewhere." Then you realize the face is yours. Most people feel a vague resentment about this experience. Mirrors are supposed to be only where you can assume your best expression and look into them. If your nose is that funny shape and your mouth is half open all the time, it's a funny thing you say to yourself, that years of looking in the mirror was defective or getting discouraged about the unattractive side face you present to your friends.

Yet the truth is the mirror wasn't defective and there is no need to get discouraged. Naomi Childers, whose side face is nearly berold improvement, knows three or four things that can be done to improve a profile.

Most girls are so engrossed in seeing how their coiffure affects the front of the face that they forget that hairdressing can make or mar a profile. The girl with the heavy nose and chin coils her hair tight to the back of her head, making her features look even more massive, the small, featured girl cheerfully builds an enormous coiffure, unconscious that by contrast her features shrink to the size of a toy poodle's.

If your features are too large, try a hairdressing high on the top of the head, but never a flat arrangement with curls at the sides. Curls are best used by the small featured girl, and she too is the type who can best wear a low fluffy coiffure. A double chin will spoil any profile, but don't therefore, make the mistake of keeping the head held back and the chin muscles stretched. That ends by making them flabby. A nightly exercise of holding the chin close to the neck and turning the face from side to side will keep the chin muscles toned up enough to withstand the effects of holding the head back when it is necessary to present a perfect profile.

MANY WILL RECEIVE DEGREES AT EMORY

Convocation exercises for the summer class at Emory University will be held next Monday in the chapel of the theological building, following the most successful summer session in the history of the institution. It was announced Thursday by university officials.

Five hundred and eighty-two were registered for the session, it was stated, compared with 201 for the initial summer session held in 1919.

Dr. C. F. Wimberly, pastor of the Bethel Methodist church at Charleston, S. C., will deliver the principal address at the exercises.

A record enrollment for the fall term is expected when registration starts on September 24, officials declared.

The following degrees will be conferred Monday by President W. H. Cox:

Bachelor of Arts—James Edward Dickey, Jr., Griffin, Ga.; Bachelor of Philosophy—Miles Hill Dillard, Emory University, Ga.; Paul Turner Gary, Fayetteville, Ga.; Earl Moseley, Lenoir, Ga.

James John Davis, secretary of labor, will visit Atlanta on Sunday, September 2, and will deliver an address in the Auditorium-Armory at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Secretary Davis is director-general of the Loyal Order of Moose, of America, and his coming visit to this city has been arranged by the Atlanta members of that organization. John Gilmore, past dictator of the local lodge, is in charge of arrangements.

Governor Branch of Alabama, Governor Walker, of Georgia, and Supreme Lecturer William Trickett Giles, of Baltimore, have signified their intention of hearing Mr. Davis, and an invitation has been forwarded to the governor of Florida. Other notable figures will be in the audience to hear the distinguished American on his first address to Georgians.

The secretary of labor's visit to Atlanta is made possible by the fact that he has accepted an engagement to address a meeting of Alabama citizens in Birmingham on Labor day.

All members of the Loyal Order of Moose and the public at large are invited to hear the address by Mr. Davis in Atlanta.

An attractive musical program has been arranged for the occasion and other arrangements, not yet announced, will add much to the interest of the visit of Mr. Davis to this city.

Junior Red Cross Children's hospital has been established at Calgary, Canada.

SEEK TO INSTILL EDUCATION DESIRE

Georgia already is doing much to keep its children in school, but must take other steps to adapt its educational institutions to conditions and hold the interest of students, according to N. H. Ballard, state superintendent of schools.

One of the objects of the survey of the entire system of the state is to learn the ways both the common and high schools can hold the attention of boys and girls and place them in college after graduation, he stated. In the consolidated schools, in many sections of the state, agriculture and other special courses are being offered, while in the cities technical and commercial courses are being offered, in addition to the operation of a number of opportunity schools to keep boys and girls on the drive for education.

Four outstanding needs were emphasized by Dr. M. M. Parks, who was superintendent of schools for several months before returning to his post as head of the State College for Women, at Milledgeville.

These were said to be: "The need for more attention to the elementary and country schools."

"The need for more attention to school finances. (With more definite and open information regarding expenditures, and with a more business-like system of appropriations.)"

"The need for better school administration. (The county unit system option, the election of the county and state school superintendents apart from politics, the reorganization of administrative boards.)"

"The need for more discussion and study of the meaning and purposes and results of education so that a better type of education may be secured for the 900,000 school children of Georgia. . . . a widespread reorganization of educational ideals and practices are equally important."

745,435 Are Enrolled.
Population at 3,000,000, with a school enrollment of 745,435, or twenty-five per cent, in 1922. In the first grade there were 201,254 pupils; in the seventh 40,557; entering freshmen, 3,100, and college graduates 806.

"The losses in the primary and elementary grades are appalling," he continued. "Sixty per cent of a child he can help himself. But still a child wrong and his future is not promising."

"Our point of view in elementary education needs reorganizing. In the past we have started too much with the adult's overhead point of view. Sometimes we have forced upon the lower schools an unscientific, lockstep, mechanical organization."

"Sometimes we have forced upon the child an artificial and uninteresting type of work. Sometimes the terms were too short, the promotions were too rapid and the work was too difficult for the children."

"No wonder so many children have grown discouraged and failed and dropped out of school. It is a tragedy. We should start with the child and work up instead of starting with adult scholarship and working down."

Thoroughness in Work.
Taking up high schools specifically, Dr. Parks showed that in 1922 there were 23,922 students in the first grade of the high schools; there were about 6,000 to graduate in the fourth grade, and about 3,000 to enter the freshman class at college. These losses, he continued, in part were due to imperfect foundation laid in the lower grades; partly to the impractical and uninteresting course of study found in some of the schools, and partly to many other causes.

"The solution," he continued, "it seems to be for the college to insist even more firmly upon thoroughness in work, but at the same time to encourage the high schools to work out a curriculum which is more closely suited to the needs of the student and public."

This policy, it was stated at the capitol today, is being followed in many states and especial stress is being laid upon it by the federal vocational board in its operations in Georgia and other states.

"The introduction of the special courses in agriculture, mechanics, commerce and other subjects will do much to hold the interest of the growing boy," said Superintendent Ballard. "The same is true relative to the special work for girls. While they are studying from books, they also are gaining something from the practical side of life and its work."

Veteran Legislator Married in Atlanta Thursday Afternoon

A veteran of many sessions of the general assembly and a prospective candidate for governor Thursday night was en route to North Carolina as a bridegroom and all cares of state were forgotten for the time being.

J. Howard Ennis, of Milledgeville, who in addition to being Baldwin county's representative in the general assembly also in mayor of Milledgeville, is the groom. Mrs. Ennis married Miss Eva Roberta Beck, also of Milledgeville, who was visiting in Atlanta, today.

The ceremony was performed at the home of J. T. Rebb, a cousin of the bride, and before friends of the couple learned of the wedding the bride and groom already were en route to Asheville, N. C.

Representative Ennis talked to a number of his friends during the morning without disclosing his secret.

The bride is a leader in Milledgeville society circles and has visited Atlanta often.

THE BEAUTY OF HEALTH

Newspapers and magazines are devoting columns to magic or over-night beautifiers. There is a beauty in health that is far more attractive to men than mere regularity of features or a made-up complexion. Health should be the first essential of women who want to win and hold admiration, respect and love. At the first indication of ill health as indicated by dark circles under the eyes, a sallow complexion, headaches, dizziness, pain in the side, nervousness, irritability and melancholia, women should take Lydia E. BALDWIN TO VISIT FRENCH PREMIER

London, August 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Recognizing the futility of a further exchange of lengthy notes on the reparations issue, Prime Minister Baldwin has decided to meet Premier Poincaré upon the former's return from his vacation at Aix-les-Bains, it became known today.

The British premier will not formally ask the French colleague for an appointment, but will make known his readiness to discuss the whole reparations problem in the light of the French premier's latest note.

The British premier feels that while in France he should profit by the suggestion contained at the end of M. Poincaré's note that the British government should be ready to discuss the indemnity problem verbally. It is thought possible Lord Curzon, the secretary for foreign affairs, may participate in this conference.

It is felt there is no immediate need of such a verbal exchange of views and in fact that it would be preferable to wait until the British government experts have carefully examined the French note.

The meeting therefore in all likelihood will take place after Mr. Baldwin has had his vacation and has the considered and matured judgment of the cabinet before him.

British treasury officials, who examined the financial features of the reply, said the French figures were wholly inadequate to cover the reparations debt to the allies and the United States out of the class C bonds, which are generally regarded here as of little more value than waste paper.

Before his departure with Mrs. Baldwin on Saturday for Aix-les-Bains, Premier Baldwin will discuss the Poincaré note with such cabinet members as remain in town.

For the present he declines to commit himself on the French note until the whole of that complicated document has been thoroughly examined.

The Belgian note, which British officials hope will have a modifying effect on the rigidity of the French claims and which they expect to be of a more generous character than the Poincaré argument, will probably arrive here Monday and will be sent forthwith to Premier Baldwin and Foreign Secretary Curzon in France.

Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, credited his love of music and ability to play well in childhood with preparing him for his great scientific study of sound.

New German Tax Levy Must Be Paid In Foreign Money

Finance Minister Declares Government Will Adopt "Strict and Brutal Policy."

Berlin, August 23.—Fighting for life, the German government intends to introduce a "strict, and even brutal tax policy," according to Finance Minister Helfferich.

Addressing the reichstag budget committee, he announced that the government will demand that holders of foreign currencies surrender them.

He stated that an emergency measure designed to force these holders of currency to give up their foreign monies has already been drafted.

"We shall not hesitate at the sternest measures to compel payment," Helfferich declared.

Payments will have to be made before the end of September, and the amounts will be determined in proportion to the previous capital tax.

If big business interests can prove that they do not have sufficient funds in foreign currency to meet their demands, they can then pay marks into the currency fund. This fund will be devoted to the stabilization of the mark and the purchase of food-stuffs.

Helfferich pointed out that high prices had caused wide unrest throughout Germany and that immediate action was essential to stem the tide of unrest.

"Monetary depreciation may mean the death of Germany," he said.

Army Aviators To Shoot Eclipse Of Sun in Plane

Los Angeles, August 22.—The army aviation service will cooperate with astronomers during the eclipse of the sun, September 10, in an attempt to further the world's knowledge of the solar system.

Captain George Stephens, holder of several air records and one of the aviators who recently spanned the continent in a non-stop flight, will be in the lead. He is an observer has gone for a similar purpose before. When MacReady pilots his plane to an altitude of 20,000 feet, Stephens will take a series of photographs of the eclipse and make other observations.

Other aviators will be in the air, too, to take photographs of the eclipse. The army aviation service is preparing instructions as to the kind of pictures desired, and Captain Stephens, upon landing from the plane, will turn his observations to the astronomers to be developed and studied.

Scientists of America, England, France and Germany are gathering at the observatory in southern California and Mexico to be on hand for the eclipse. The total eclipse will come at 12:34 p. m., September 10, and will last for three minutes and 45 seconds. The sun will begin to disappear at 11:25 a. m., and will be free from shadow.

The eclipse will be visible first near Japan and will travel across the Pacific ocean at the rate of 1,800 miles an hour, being visible from the island of Mexico to the west tip of California, Lower California and Mexico. The shadow will be 105 miles wide.

Observations of the sun's corona, of the surface of the sun emerging from behind the rim of the moon, of the quality of light and as pertaining to the eclipse in theory, which contains a ray of light is sent by the sun, will be among the principle photographs attempted by observers.

Both of the technical work will be done at the Mount Wilson observatory.

Bobbed Tresses Send Salvation Army Lass To Commander Booth

Chicago, August 23.—Captain Mildred Booth, 25, of the Salvation army, who served during the world war, left today for Lake George, N. Y., to appear before Commander Evangeline Booth for a ruling as to whether bobbed hair constitutes a breach of discipline of the organization.

Captain Olsen, who is an expert swimmer, has her hair bobbed because it interfered with her diving.

Salvation army officials here recalled that during the war Mary Booth, niece of Commander Evangeline Booth, had her hair bobbed in France and was ordered by General Branwell Booth to remain in Paris until it grew long again.

IRISH REPUBLICANS OUTLINE PROGRAM

London, August 23.—An insight into the program of the Irish republicans in the event the de Valera faction wins in the election next week, is given in a manifesto published by Peter McGinley, republican agent in Donegal, according to the Belfast correspondent of the Morning Post.

Assuming that the republicans will be in a majority in the Dail, the manifesto says that among other things they will take possession of the legislature and will form a ministry, probably with the support of the laborers.

They will ignore the treaty and everything that implies British supremacy, including the governor general, whose salary will immediately cease.

The irregulars, continues the manifesto, will reduce the army to 5,000 or even to 1,000 men, substituting a volunteer force. They will cut salaries of judges and other officials. They plan neither to acknowledge nor respect the death award, any internal boundary in Ireland and will call upon England to evacuate the borders and observe the three-mile limit.

Don't Overlook Buying a Webster

No well-ordered business or professional office is without a good dictionary—the very latest. Even the best of us have vulnerable points in our vocabulary.

Remember that YOU are largely responsible for the misspelled words in your office if you haven't a dictionary. We have Webster's in every size and style. Ask for prices.
